A MOSAIC OF SHELBYVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

Communications 5-22 • Arts 23-32 • Sciences 33-40 • Skills

As the student body enters Shelbyville High School each morning, it sees a large circular design, eight feet in diameter and portrayed in eight pastel colors, embedded in the terrazzo floor of the front entrance hall. This mosaic, which depicts each phase of school life in its symbolic sections, represents the curriculum of the school. In addition to using these segments to feature the facets of our school life in this book, we have also used the large "S" in the center of the mosaic as being symbolic of the student body as a whole. Directly above the "S", to the right, is the section representing government and history. Continuing clockwise, or to the right, are the following sections: academic science, domestic science, the fine arts, English and business, mathematics, athletics, and vocations.

As each student progresses through his high school career, he touches, sooner or later, briefly or extensively, each section of the mosaic. When the student graduates, he has traveled the circumference of the circle and has received some compensation from each division.

The purpose of our 1961 Squib is to acquaint you, to the best of our ability, with Shelbyville High School. We are proud of S. H. S. and believe that the excerpt from "The Builders" by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow very adequately expresses the school's philosophy:

"All are architects of Fate,
Working in these walls of Time;
Build today, then, strong and sure,
With a firm and simple base,
And ascending and secure
Shall tomorrow find its place."

Students take a break from studying to enjoy the facilities of the student center.

Have your lunch money ready, please!

FRIENDS, FADS, AND FUN MAKE SCHOOL YEAR COMPLETE

Karen Gunning, Dave Jones, Tim Douglas, and Allen Pence take time to read the information on the bulletin board outside the office.

How times change! Just think of the change in Shelbyville High School since its beginning. It has grown from the first graduating class of six, in 1872, to our present class of 213. Shelby High has "lived through" four school buildings, the present one being completed in 1959.

Today S. H. S. covers forty-three acres at the northwest corner of Miller Street and McKay Road. It has thirty-one classrooms, thirty-two faculty members, and 571 students.

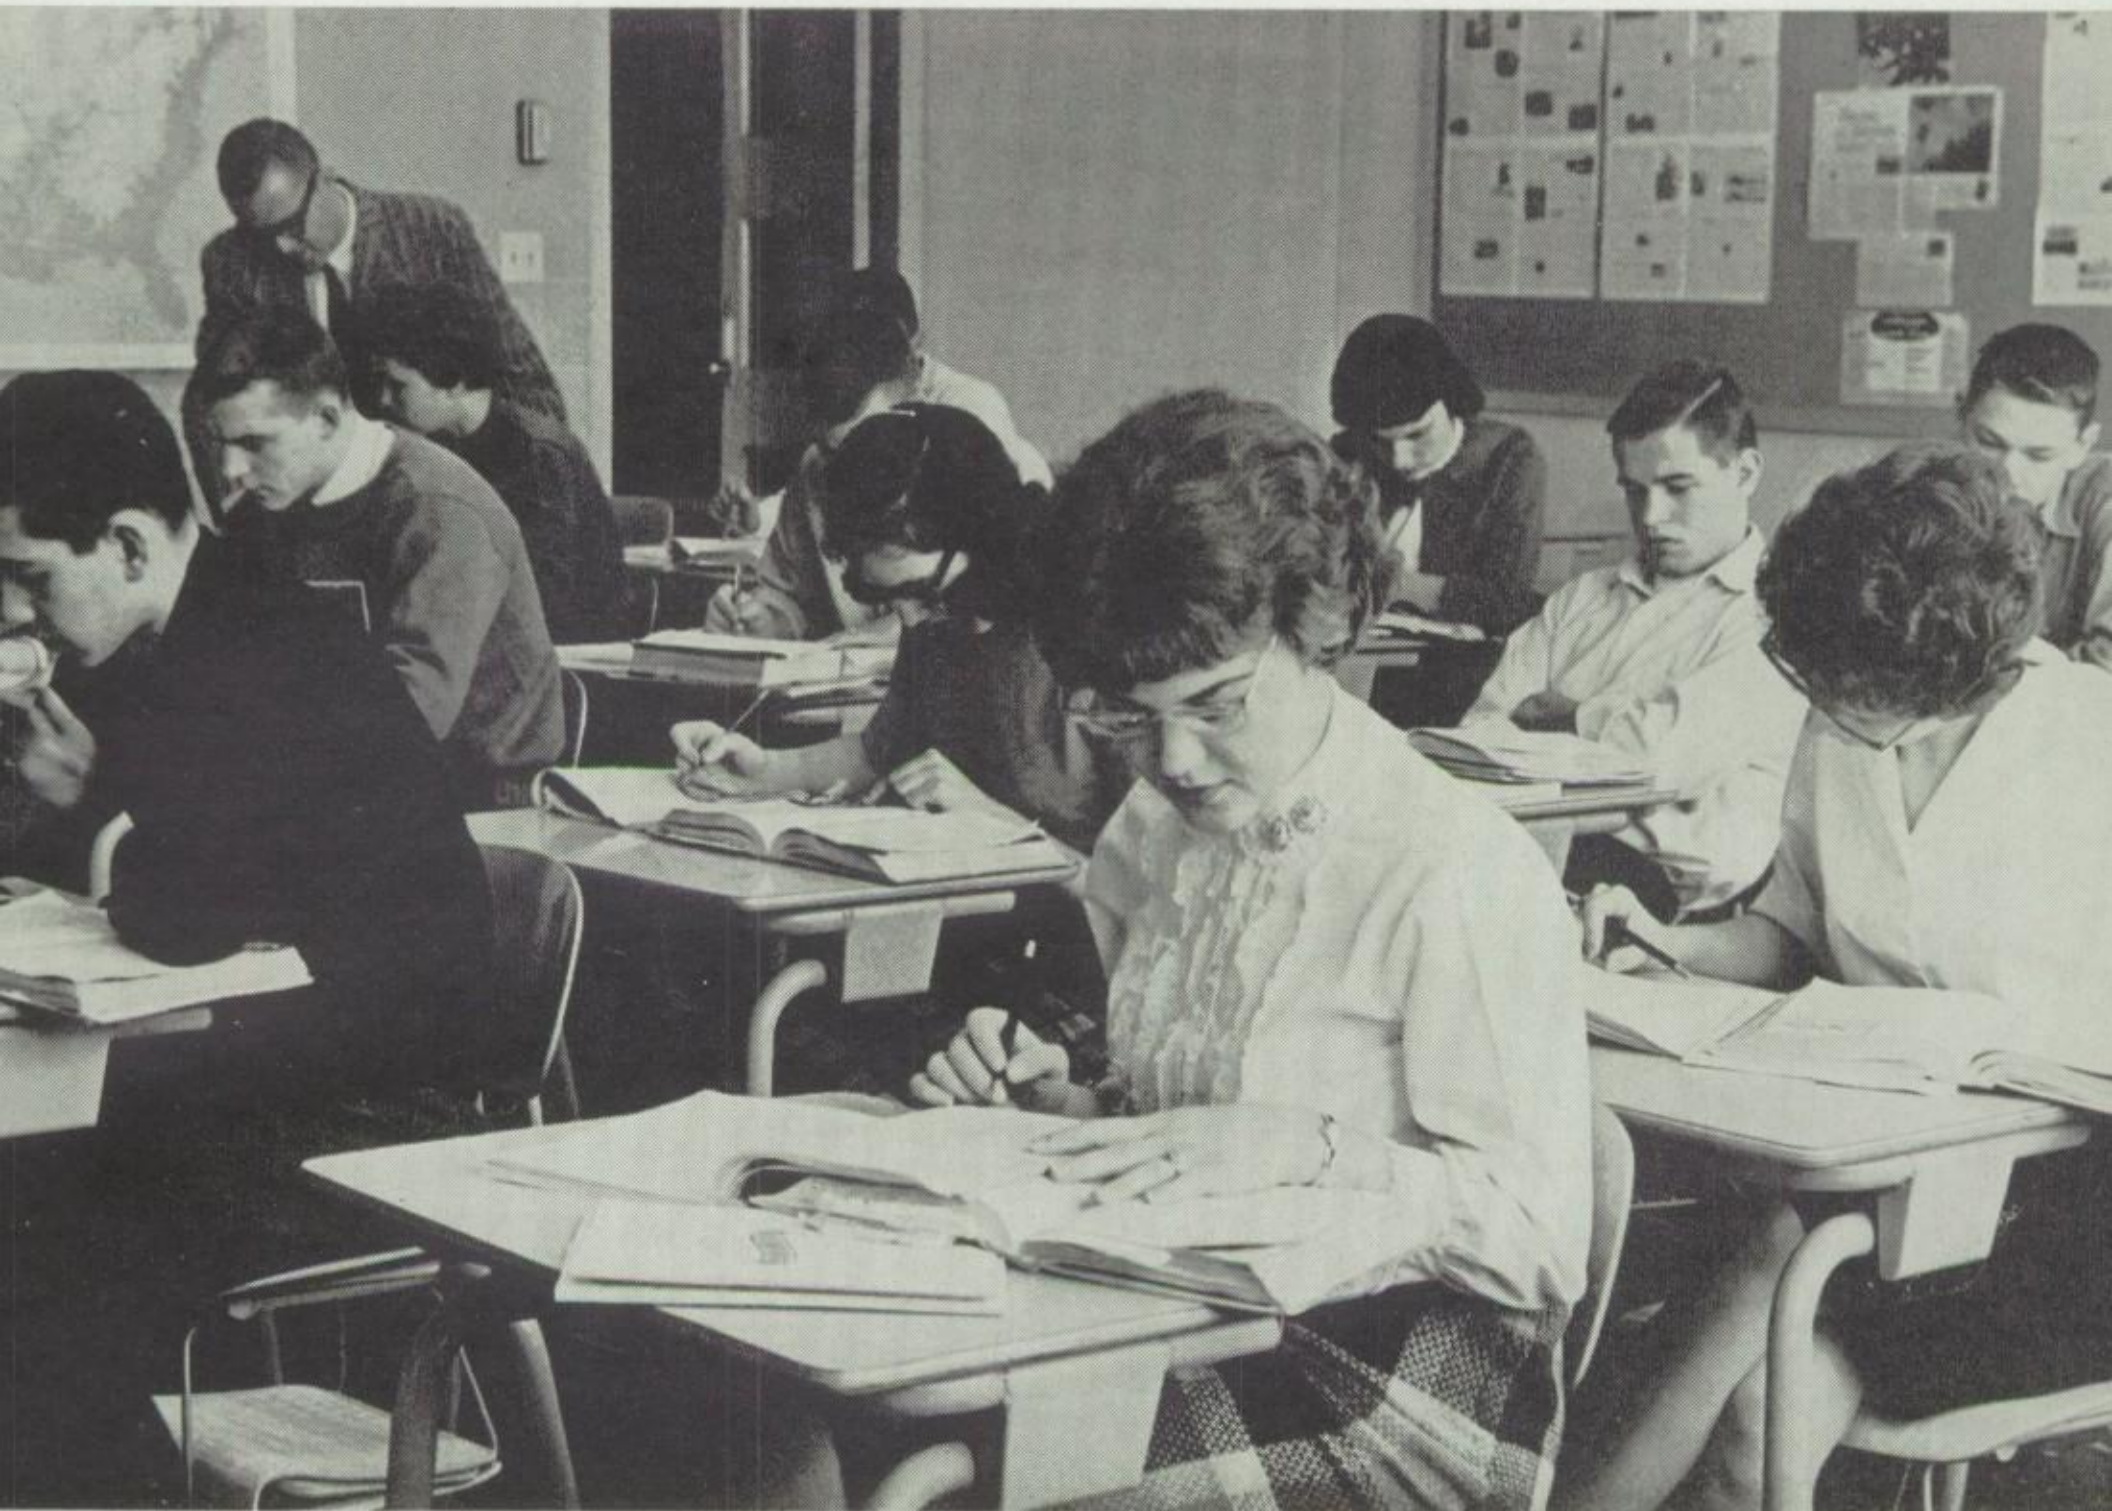

The students will long remember the fun and activities of 1960-61 at S. H. S. Boys' class rings could barely be detected under the yards and yards of Angora yarn which the girls had so tediously wrapped about the bands.

Pegged pants were still popular with the boys; and short skirts, kneeknockers, and tennis shoes became a hit with girls.

Last-minute cramming sessions at lunch or between classes, wading in snowdrifts and water puddles in the parking lot, and rushing to classes before the tardy bell rang were frequent happenings at S. H. S.

Special convocations presented by the Shelbyville Rotary Club, Show Group, Armed Services, and Hi-Y brought changes to the routine of the school day.

Dances and sock-hops were enjoyed by the students, also. The unusual experience (or, as some would say, the privilege!) of being snowbound at the Columbus Sectional added another unforgettable memory to the wealth we have from our high school days.

COMMUNICATIONS

In a world such as the world of today, one must possess the ability to express himself clearly, concisely, accurately, and wisely. In addition to this guidance in expression, the English department encourages one to be grammatically correct in his speech, thereby giving him confidence in expressing his opinions to others and in standing before audiences.

In foreign language classes (Spanish and Latin), one develops a reading knowledge of the language and a speaking ability.

The library is an accessible source of man's accumulated knowledge; through its prudent and perpetual use, minds are improved and horizons broadened.

History and government classes furnish one with a wide knowledge of past and present events. The study of these enables one to foresee that certain future happenings are inevitable and aids him in interpreting these events in their true perspective. Also, since S. H. S. must have direction of its own, the school administrative personnel is included in this section.

The commerce department offers the student instruction in the various phases of the business world—typing, shorthand, business English, bookkeeping, and business machines.

"Is Any Propaganda Defensible?" was the panel topic discussed by Lynn Pitts, Lynn Delap, Mike Brunner, Jay Clapp, and David Mardis in Mrs. Marshall's sophomore English class.

Diagrams, sentences, paragraphs, themes, outlines for the study of . . . , biographies, literary characteristics, Shakespearian television plays, and a term paper—all these things are part of the memories of English classes. Experienced teachers tried to instill in our minds some knowledge of the English language through a study of vocabulary, grammar, usage, spelling, capitalization, and punctuation. Writing skills were specifically stressed through the construction of paragraphs developed by specific methods, through the outlinings of original papers, and through the writings of library papers on approved subjects. Speaking and listening skills are emphasized through the experiences of panel discussions, parliamentary procedure, interviews, and explanations.

Under faculty guidance, students sampled the great works of literature, studied the lives of the authors, and tried to see the relationship between the two. Many passages to be committed to memory from the writings of great men were assigned along with outside reading of fiction, biography, career books, and informative articles.

"All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players," wrote Shakespeare. In speech classes, students are taught to read and speak their parts with poise and confidence. Imagination plays an important role. For special assignments, students addressed imaginary audiences using speeches based on fictional "facts." Practical applications are stressed, also. What is learned under the heading of "Speech to Convince" might be used favorably to influence one's parents on such matters as the use of the car, a raise in allowance, or the purchase of a new sweater!

When a busy student wants to read the latest novel and earn one-fourth credit for it, what does he do? He takes Developmental Reading in the new laboratory! This course was designed for the student wishing to improve his reading speed, comprehension, and vocabulary. Each student has a workbook for his use and keeps an up-to-date folder containing records of tests with regard to reading comprehension and rates.

The facilities of this classroom include sixteen Shadowscopes, a set of training films, a 16 mm. projector and projector screen, and a library of books. The sixteen Shadowscopes or reading pacers are located in sixteen individual booths. The student, staying within the beam of light, reads the material at hand and places major emphasis upon comprehension.

Tom Graham stresses a point in his final speech as members of the class look on.

PUZZLING STORIES CHALLENGE LANGUAGE STUDENTS

Foreign Language Classes

Verbs and their conjugations, vocabulary, Caesar and Cicero, translation, dictation, and oral comprehension are a few of the things connected with the study of either Latin or Spanish. Some of the less routine study aids included magazines and newspapers, recordings of songs, conversations, stories, and a mystery novel which was read by the fourth semester Spanish class. (The mystery was a double thriller because students discovered a mystery in the translation as well as the one in the plot!)

For the first time in several years, Latin V and VI were offered to those students desiring to learn more about this language and the historical people associated with it. Jane Durrenberger is the instructor in foreign language classes.

Library

The library was, as always, a popular place to spend study or free time. Books and magazines were available for pleasure and research. One of the frequently used features of the library was the shelf containing yearbooks from various high schools and colleges.

The Advanced History Class made extensive use of the library; other students sought information for term papers and speeches. Among the juniors trying to earn an "A" in history class, Let the Hurricane Roar was the most reported-on book.

The majority of the girls favored Seventeen and McCall's; many of the boys devoured Popular Mechanics, Sport, and The Atlantic Journal; deep thinkers explored America, Atlantic Monthly, and The Clearing House. By using these library facilities, many students saved the money that otherwise would have purchased issues of these magazines.

Miss Marion Chenoweth's journalism classes published twelve issues of The Courier and a special April Fool edition, named The Scurrier—"We Ferry The Fibs To You!" As in the past, members of the staff visited The Shelbyville News to get suggestions for their school paper and to see how a commercial newspaper operates. In the high school column of this city paper, school news was reported by Pat McDonald, John Harding, and Billie Hutton.

Yearly, two junior journalism students who show the most ability in newspaper writing are awarded scholarships by The Shelbyville News. The winners are entitled to attend the annual High School Journalism Institute, Newspaper Division, held in the summer at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana.

SQUIB STAFF STRUGGLES TO MEET DEADLINES

Something is good if it fulfills the rightful purpose for which it was created. Since the purpose of a yearbook is to perpetuate the memory of high school years, we have strived for this goal during our busy academic year.

The editorial staff members of the 1961 Squib — sponsored by Carol Snyder Marshall — have spent an active (and sometimes hectic) year taking pictures, writing copy, rushing to and from the printer, and trying to meet deadlines in order to produce this book.

Of course the annual could not have been published had it not been for the business staff — sponsored by Lawrence “Boots” Thompson. They raised the money for the Squib by advertising, boosting the subscription sales, and hawking their wares (refreshments!) at ball games.

Many ideas, much thought, and hard, hard work have gone into the 1961 Squib; but the staff has enjoyed seeing the book grow from a vision to an actuality. We sincerely hope our efforts will produce an atmosphere of nostalgic enjoyment for you, our readers. If memories of classes, activities, fun, and all that high school may have meant to each of you, come alive in these pages, we feel that our mission has been accomplished!

"RESTLESS NATIVES" RESPOND TO FOOD CALLS

Steve Keith, John Liverseidge, and Roger Whitcomb sack hot popcorn for half-time rush.

The Concessionaires, sponsored by the Squib's business staff, is a group of thirty senior boys and girls who hawked their wares at basketball games in the Paul Cross Gym. Approximately one third of the cost of producing the 1961 Squib was secured by these hard-working seniors. Pretty girls, dressed in white blouses, black skirts, and yellow aprons, and good-looking boys, clad in gray laboratory-type aprons, sold hot popcorn, cold cokes, and cooling ice cream to eager spectators.

To help increase sales this year, the organization, under the management of Oren Olinger, operated two new stands—one in the top northeast corner and one in the upper northwest corner of the gymnasium. These new stands helped appreciably in raising the necessary additional funds for the Squib. The easily accessible locations were also very convenient for the people who didn't want to fight their way through the "great masses" for refreshments.

The history department of our school encompasses seven semesters of work: world history in the sophomore year, American history in the junior year, and a choice of government, economics, or American problems in the senior year. Since 1960 was a national election year, all history classes voted for national, state, and local candidates on official ballots. Beforehand, a certain amount of time was spent on the study of elections; this study is required by law during election years.

The main purpose of our history department is to teach the fundamentals of history and its problems to students at the high school level. By writing term papers, making book reports, hearing lectures, participating in informative discussions, watching films, and working on special projects, pupils earned credits in history classes.

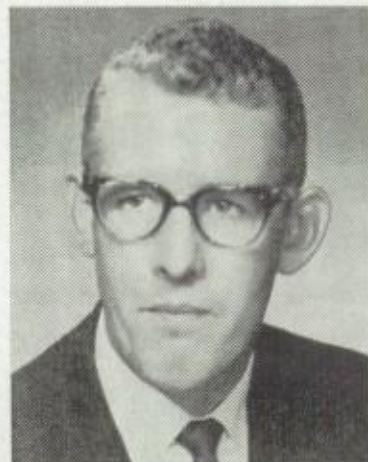

Irene Simpson and Loren Hemingway teach world history; Ray Hinshaw and Robert Clapp are the American history teachers; Ronald Abrell instructs the government and economics classes; and Frank Barnes teaches American problems.

"They that can give up essential liberties to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

B. Franklin

In its fourth year of existence at S. H. S., the advanced American history class is composed of twenty members who are chosen on the basis of achievement test scores taken at the beginning of the second semester and on the previous semester's work.

Under the direction of Ray Hinshaw, junior history instructor, this class meets during the third period and follows a different routine than the regular class. These special students cover the textbooks and take exams over the book, but they also do extra reading and research. Term papers, discussion questions, essay exams, special achievement tests, and an achievement exam over the entire American history course are some of the special projects participated in by these students.

A new method of teaching, that of television, was inaugurated in this class. Television teaching, in the experimental stage yet at S. H. S., was used intermittently and in combination with the regular study routine.

Evening meetings of the Forum were attended by fifty-eight juniors and seniors who met biweekly in the school library. To become eligible for the Forum, a student must have attended a majority of the discussion group meetings. The discussion groups are preliminary training organizations formed to help prepare students for the Forum.

The Forum has several purposes: to help members express themselves more clearly and forcefully; to promote constructive thinking on the student's part; and to allow the students to discuss among themselves the problems and affairs which affect the world, the nation, and our city.

Outstanding members of the Forum were initiated into the Forum Honor Group; this group, composed of twenty-two members, led the discussions for both the Forum and the discussion group meetings and graded the discussion group members on their performance in the attempt to gain future admittance to the parent organization. Members of the honor group received awards at the end of the year.

Officers of the Forum were as follows: Charles Hubler, president; Donna Allen, vice-president; Trudy Haley, secretary; and Janice Metz, treasurer. Ray Hinshaw is the sponsor of this organization, and he is assisted by Ronald Abrell.

AND GROUP PLAYS PATERNAL ROLE TO ITS INFANT

The Discussion Group is open to all those students who are interested in examining world, national, and local affairs. This group gives pupils a chance to learn the prerequisites for Forum and also introduces the new "would-be" members of Forum to its present members. Requiring underclassmen to attend a certain number of its meetings in order to be eligible for Forum membership, this organization has its meetings under the auspices of the leadership group of Forum and holds debates on the same questions that Forum discusses.

This society is under the supervision of Ray Hinshaw and Ronald Abrell.

Steve Mohr, Jean Gehr, Mary Beth Abel, Ann Schoelch, and Larry Snapp seek information for a future discussion group meeting.

ACTIVE COUNCIL INSURES STUDENT PARTICIPATION

The Student Council was created six years ago. Its purpose is best stated in the preamble of the Student Council's constitution: "To establish a medium of association and cooperation with the principal and the faculty on school matters; to encourage and promote a finer school spirit; to create respect and ambition for high scholastic attainment; and to further the general welfare of this high school."

The Council is composed of the elected home room representatives, the three class presidents, and the editor of the Squib.

The officers for 1960-61 were as follows: Steve Keith, president; Don Thompson, vice-president; Georgiann Martin, corresponding secretary; Faye Cole, recording secretary; Trudy Haley, treasurer; and Barbara Benefiel, parliamentarian. Rita Fern Comstock and Frank Barnes were the faculty advisors.

Student Council accomplished many things in the 1960-61 academic year. It sold school directories, managed the class elections, endeavored to improve scholarship, and sponsored many social events, one of which was the Fall Wind-Up Dance.

Students should appreciate the work done by the Student Council because it is through this organization that pupils can participate in the governing of Shelbyville High School.

Steve Keith, president, addresses members of the Student Council and its sponsor, Mrs. Comstock.

NOTHING IS SO DEAR AND PRECIOUS AS TIME." — F. RABELAIS

Acting as a steering body, the Executive Committee of Student Council assembles before each Student Council meeting and discusses agenda items. In order to increase the efficiency of the Student Council, this committee disposes of small matters without the aid of the council and refers to that governing group only those items of importance. The Executive Committee is the top policy-making organization at S. H. S.

The officers of the Student Council, the class presidents, the Squib editor, and one elected Student Council member from each class serve on this committee which is sponsored by Rita Fern Comstock and Frank Barnes.

Also, the Executive Committee has the important duty of proposing amendments to the Student Council's constitution. An amendment must pass by a two-thirds vote before the steering committee will forward it to the council. Other projects of the committee coincide with those of the council, for these two organizations work closely together.

DANCE MUSIC SWELLED FOR GAY GROUP

FALL WIND-UP COURT: Janice Metz, Phil Lackey; Kathy Briggs, Mark Mount; Ann Woodmansee, Don Sexton; Trudy Haley, Ed Gaston; Pat McComas, Dave Spannbaue; Jean Gehr, Larry Moberly.

The Fall Wind-Up Dance, sponsored by the Student Council and held at the Elks' Club on October 8, 1960, was a formal recognition of all the fall sports and their participants. The members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes chose two girls to represent each group. One of these girls, senior Trudy Haley, escorted by Ed Gaston, was elected queen by those attending the dance and was crowned by Steve Keith, president of the Student Council.

Bev Hall, along with other members of the typing class, works diligently on the day's assignment.

Today's business world is a complex and exacting one. Blanche Ashby, Everett Brown, and Rita Fern Comstock, commercial teachers, offer instruction in the different business subjects—typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, business English, and general business.

Typewriting, in its first year, attempts to develop a mastery of the keyboard of a standard typewriter by touch; speed in production and in typing straight copy is emphasized in the second year. In the office practice part of the second year of typing, pupils also use key-driven and rotary business machines and a voice-writer.

First year Gregg Shorthand students take dictation of practiced material and also of new material at varying speeds and transcribe shorthand notes in longhand. Students of the second year develop skill in the ability to take dictation at a gradually increasing rate of speed and with a satisfactory degree of accuracy.

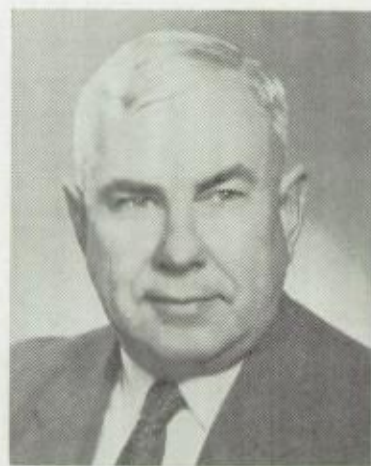

The teaching of the fundamentals of double entry bookkeeping is done in the two-semester bookkeeping class of S. H. S.

An introduction to filing, bookkeeping, business arithmetic, business terminology and letter writing, and commercial geography are a few of the encounterments made by general business and business English students.

ARTS

Fine arts can be generally defined as those arts which tend to affect the emotions, such as sculpture, painting, or music, as distinguished from the useful arts which serve the physical needs of life. They are created to be enjoyed, or they are created for a purpose which ends in the works themselves. For example, a picture is painted for its own sake, not to be used as an instrument but to be looked at and admired. The same is also true in the case of a song, a poem, a statue, or a drama.

Poetry, oratory, the drama, and sometimes fiction fall in the category of literary fine art. But since all writing is conceived primarily as a means of information and of communicating ideas and is addressed to the intellect as much as to the emotions, literature is always classed apart from the other fine arts. The major fine arts are painting, sculpturing, architecture, and music; but there are countless other minor forms of the fine arts.

Here at S. H. S., fine arts are offered in such courses as art (painting, drawing, ceramics, etc.), band, and choir. Our art courses are fine arts in themselves, while band and choir fall under the more general heading of the fine art of music. The Mask and Dagger organization gives students a chance to enjoy one of the fine arts, i. e. drama; and the May Festival activities incorporate the use of several of the fine arts.

Under the supervision of Lorena Williams, S. H. S. 's art instructor, the art classes were busy with various projects which included several attractive displays in the front entrance showcase and in the corridors. The Christmas display—one of the most striking and colorful of all—consisted of a manger scene with a winter setting of snowmen, angel hair snow, and bells. In addition to making manuscripts at Christmas time, the lettering classes undertook posters for dances and suppers.

In the designing classes, students have an unlimited horizon for producing original ideas in design work. Pupils elaborated upon mother and daughter costumes, evening gowns, and casual sportswear.

Art appreciation also plays an important role in our curriculum. In a course such as this one, a student learns the value of good art and traces it from its early history down through the present time. The student studies architecture, architects, and great artists, both past and modern.

If he so desires, a pupil has the privilege of appraising his artistic talents in the ceramic class where he makes extensive use of the potters' wheels, kilns, and the spray booth in order to fashion his pottery.

Artists George Broughtplenty, Linda Wiley, Pat Gregory, Dal Marie Junken, and Pete McNamara work on a Christmastide scene.

VOCAL GROUPS PRESENT ENTERTAINING PROGRAMS

Under the direction of Martin Schulz, the eighty-two voices of the robed choir could be heard at Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter, the Sacred Concert, Baccalaureate, local service clubs' meetings, and neighboring schools.

Officers of the choir were Roger Whitcomb, president; Ted Honey, vice-president; Loretta Sutton, secretary-treasurer; and Sharon Shaner, typist.

The Singing Stars consisted of fourteen girls selected by Martin Schulz, the director, on the basis of voice quality, personality, and showmanship. Leaders of the Singing Stars were as follows: president, Marilyn Nay; vice-president, Emily McKeand; secretary-treasurer, Sharon Shaner; librarian, Susan Stine; and accompanist, Lola McNeely.

Qualifications for the twenty-three members of the Boys' Glee Club involved voice quality, personality, and showmanship. C. M. Hepp was president of the club; Ted Honey served as vice-president; and Tim Douglas was secretary-treasurer.

The Show Group is composed of the Singing Stars and eighteen members of the Boys' Glee Club. Performing for service clubs' meetings, sororities' functions, and several other organizational affairs give the members of this group invaluable experience in presenting public programs.

Show Group officers were Mike Mount, president; C. M. Hepp, vice-president; and Sue Ann Worland, secretary-treasurer.

Terry Kohler, Carol Trees, Ginny Lou Payne, Anne Brant, Gail Sleeth, and Ann Taylor join in song accompanied by Debbie Wright.

S. H. S. HOSTS BAND FESTIVAL

Francis W. Chesser, Instrumental Music. B. S., M. S., Indiana State Teachers College, Indiana University, Ohio State University, Butler University, Edinburgh University. Goldenaires Dance Band Sponsor. Hobby: Woodworking.

A school needs a band! A band course should teach the student responsibility and good character traits. Through participation in the band, the student is able to render service to the school and community; he is offered varied band music experience and a cultural enrichment. Under the direction of Francis Chesser, S. H. S.'s band can be heard during half-times at ball games or can be seen participating in holiday parades. Much time and expense go into the selection of valuable equipment for the students who participate in the band.

This year S. H. S. had the privilege of playing host to various communities in the band festival held at the Paul Cross Gymnasium on April 8 and 9. Out-of-town guests participating in the Good Neighbor Festival were Connersville, Rushville, Seymour, Franklin, Columbus, and Greensburg. Following a two-hour rehearsal, the members were treated to a party and dance with music being provided by the Satellite Dance Band.

Officers of the band were Steve McGrew, president; Bob Silbert, vice-president; and Kay Platt, secretary-treasurer.

The dance band, known as the Goldenaires, was unable to play at very many events this year because it lacked saxophone players. It did participate, however, in the May Festival; its selections were "Country Gardens," "Entrance and March of the Peers," and "Overture."

What is a marching band at a football game without the shrill whistles and the glint of batons under the lights? S. H. S.'s fine group of majorettes and their drum major added a great deal to the football and basketball spectacles through their precise drills and polished feats of skill.

The Shelbyettes, a group of precision modern dancers, entertained the spectators at basketball and football games with their choreographic performances. They also had a major role in the annual May Festival in which they executed a modern dance routine to the music of "Intermission Riff."

POPULAR MAY FESTIVAL DRAWS HUGE CROWD

The 38th annual May Festival, as in past years, climaxed the year's activities. To the familiar strains of "Country Gardens," played by the Goldenaires, twenty junior girls performed the traditional arch dance. All wore floor-length white gowns and carried floral arches which they had decorated. Through these arches, the Lord Mayor, the May Queen, and the elected May Court girls, with their chosen escorts, entered.

After the queen was crowned by the Lord Mayor, the festivities ensued. The S. H. S. Band performed a precise marching drill. The Singing Stars, dressed in sailor costumes, sang a novelty tune, "Minskol Dinskol."

Using the Robed Choir's background melodies, members of the dancing groups delighted the audience with their performances. Nine girls dressed in pastel shades of flowing chiffon competed for Ross Rowland's attention in "One Boy." "Me and My Shadow" was portrayed by three boys and six girls in black and white costumes. A group of girls frolicked to the popular tune of "Do Re Mi."

Kathy Houston scored a big hit with her humorous rendition of "I Cain't Say No." The Shelbyettes, costumed in white satin tuxedos, top hats, and red canes, performed to "Intermission Riff." The chorus line of the Rockettes, a featured number for several years, performed their popular routine with precision. Steve McGrew, an outstanding band member, rendered his interpretation of "Trumpet Blues."

The colorful pageant was brought to a close with the recession. With the graceful exit of the Queen and her court, the curtain fell on another exciting and memorable festival evening.

SEVEN PRETTY GIRLS WITH ESCORTS

Marilyn Nay, Tom Graham, Steve Hutchens, and Marty Mitchell.

MARILYN NAY AND TOM GRAHAM

Marilyn, one of the brunettes on the court, is president of Singing Stars and a member of Robed Choir, Squib Staff, Future Nurses, Sunshine Society, Booster Club, and Show Group. Collecting stereo records and keeping a sports scrapbook are her hobbies. Her escort, Tom, is a member of the varsity basketball, football, and baseball teams. He is active in S-Club, Hi-Y, N. A. S. S., and Student Council, and plans to attend Indiana University.

MARTY MITCHELL AND STEVE HUTCHENS

Participating in Booster Club, Shelbyettes, Sunshine Society, Future Teachers, and Forum keeps Marty busy; but in her spare time she enjoys swimming and playing golf. Marty came to S. H. S. from San Jose, California, in 1958 and plans to enter Miami University's secondary school of education. Escorting Marty is Steve Hutchens, who likes working on his car and collecting coins and old records. Steve's activities include Boys' Cheer Block, Hi-Y, and Courier Staff. He plans to attend the school of business at Indiana University.

Ted Honey, Trudy Haley, Faye Cole, and Dick Schoelch.

TRUDY HALEY AND TED HONEY

Dark-eyed Trudy is an active member of Future Teachers, Booster Club, Sunshine Society, Forum, and Mask and Dagger and has served on several other courts. She plans to attend Purdue where she will study speech and English. Ted, her escort, enjoys sports and music and is a member of Hi-Y, Robed Choir, Show Group, and Band. Indiana University is his choice for future study.

FAYE COLE AND DICK SCOELCH

Faye, better known as Peachie, is one of the three girls on the Spring Court who served as yell leader. Even though she's a member of Booster Club, Sunshine Society, and Student Council, Peachie also serves as secretary-treasurer of the senior class and finds time to help in the office. Water skiing, bowling, swimming, and dancing are her favorite activities. Her escort will be Dick Schoelch. Dick is a "500" fan and enjoys music and athletics. He served on the varsity basketball and football teams, and is the senior class president. Purdue is Dick's choice for college.

HIGHLIGHT THE 1961 MAY FESTIVAL

SHERRY SMITH AND DICK STAATS

Sherry enjoys sewing, listening to records, bowling, swimming, and dancing. Booster Club, Future Nurses, and Sunshine Society are the organizations in which she has been active; yet she still finds time to work in the office. Sherry will be escorted by Dick Staats. Dick participated in football, S-Club, Hi-Y, and N. A. S. S. and served on the Student Council for two years. His favorite pastimes are reading and collecting jazz records.

CINDY MULLEN AND PHIL CRAMER

Serving as a varsity cheerleader for three years, Cindy is also a member of G. A. A., Sunshine Society, Home Economics Club, and Student Council. She enjoys bowling and swimming and has been a member of several other courts. Cindy has chosen Phil Cramer as her escort. Phil is an active member of Hi-Y, S-Club, and Forum and serves on the varsity golf and tennis teams. He plans to attend Indiana University next fall.

Sherry Smith, Dick Staats, Phil Cramer, and Cindy Mullen.

JANICE METZ AND NORTH THURSTON

Janice, active in many organizations and an office worker, is another cheerleader on the 1961 Spring Court. While she enjoys swimming, sewing, and dancing, attending basketball games is her favorite hobby and keeping a scrapbook of all the social and athletic events at school is one of her pastimes. Next year Janice plans to attend college; she will study elementary education. Janice is shown with North Thurston, Lord Mayor of the 1961 May Festival. North is active in many organizations and serves as a copy editor for the Squib. For several years, North has known that he wanted to become a secondary teacher of mathematics so he has enrolled at Hanover College.

THE STEPS TO STARDOM ARE STEEP

Members of the play casts and crew look pleased after the final curtain call.

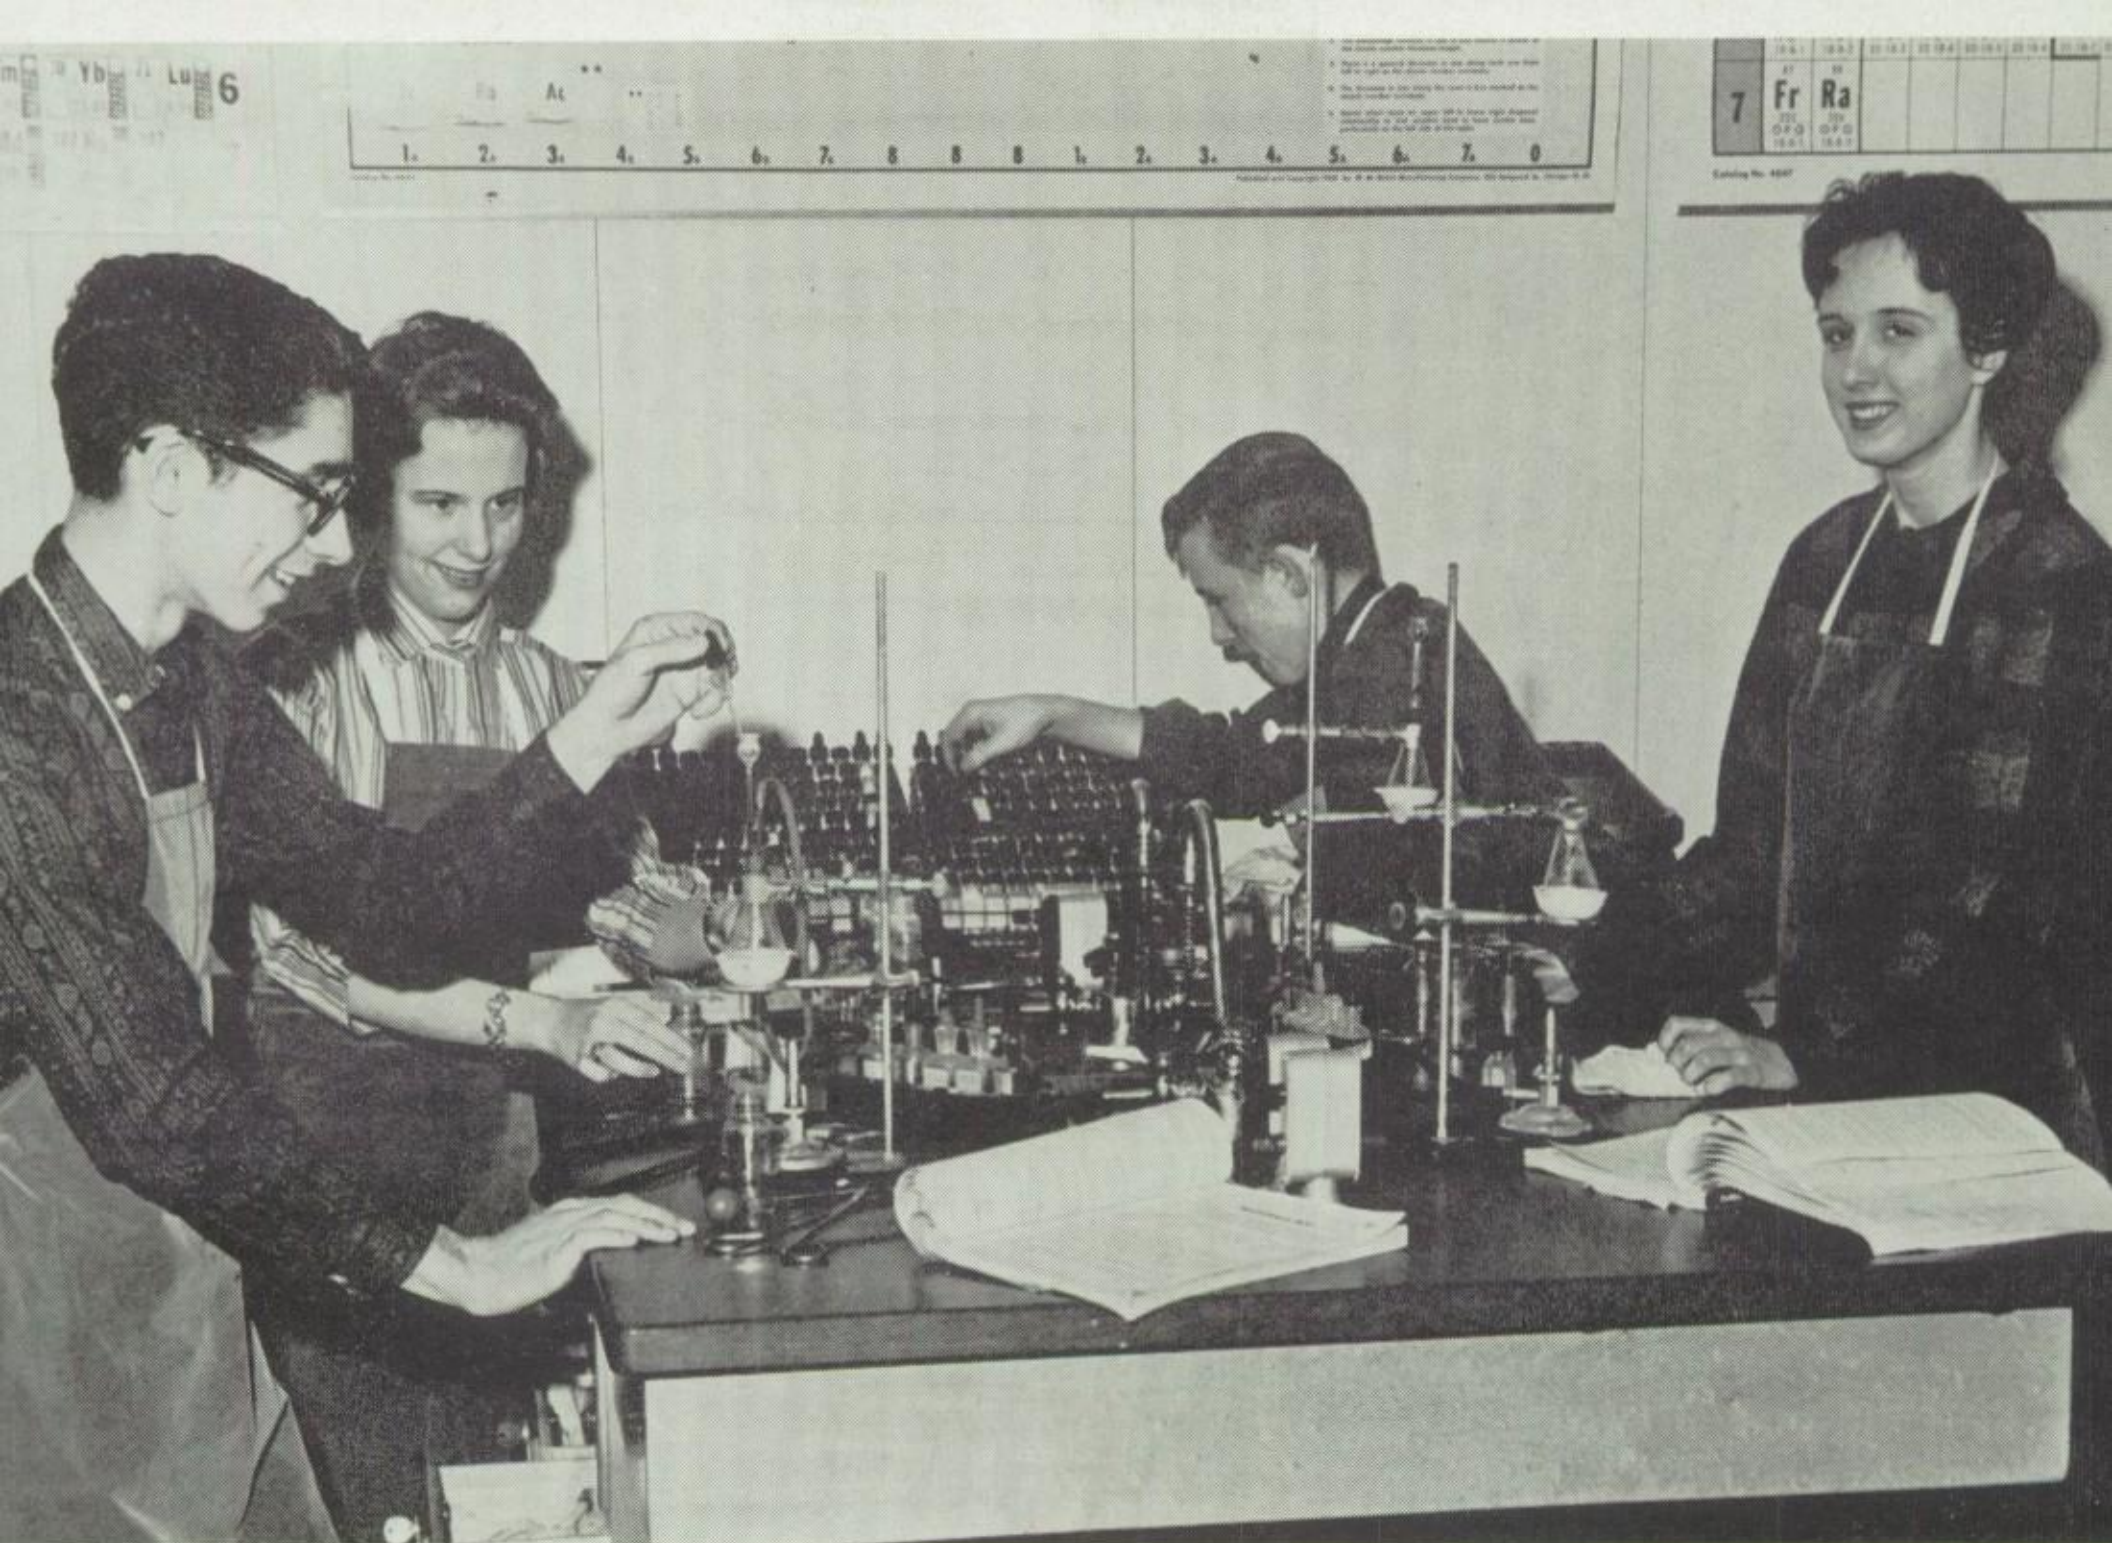

Dick Carney, Leonard Worland, Ross Rowland, and Steve Scharlach are involved in a game of cards and a little gossip (--from the play, "If Men Played Cards As Women Do").

In its second year of existence the Mask and Dagger feels that it has had a very rewarding season. Under the capable leadership of Mr. J. Daniel Kocher, S. H. S. speech teacher, the members of the group gave three one-act plays — No Greater Love, If Men Played Cards as Women Do, and Heaven Will Protect the Working Girl. Both nights of the presentations were well attended by interested parents and enthusiastic members of the community.

Various crews were assigned to make-up, lighting, props, and paperwork. Rowland Furniture Store donated the furniture for the plays; many flattering comments were heard about the effectiveness of the props and stage settings. The hard work and the toil involved in such a project are greatly outweighed by the fun, pleasure, and experience which one derives from ardent participation in the activities of the growing dramatics program at S. H. S.

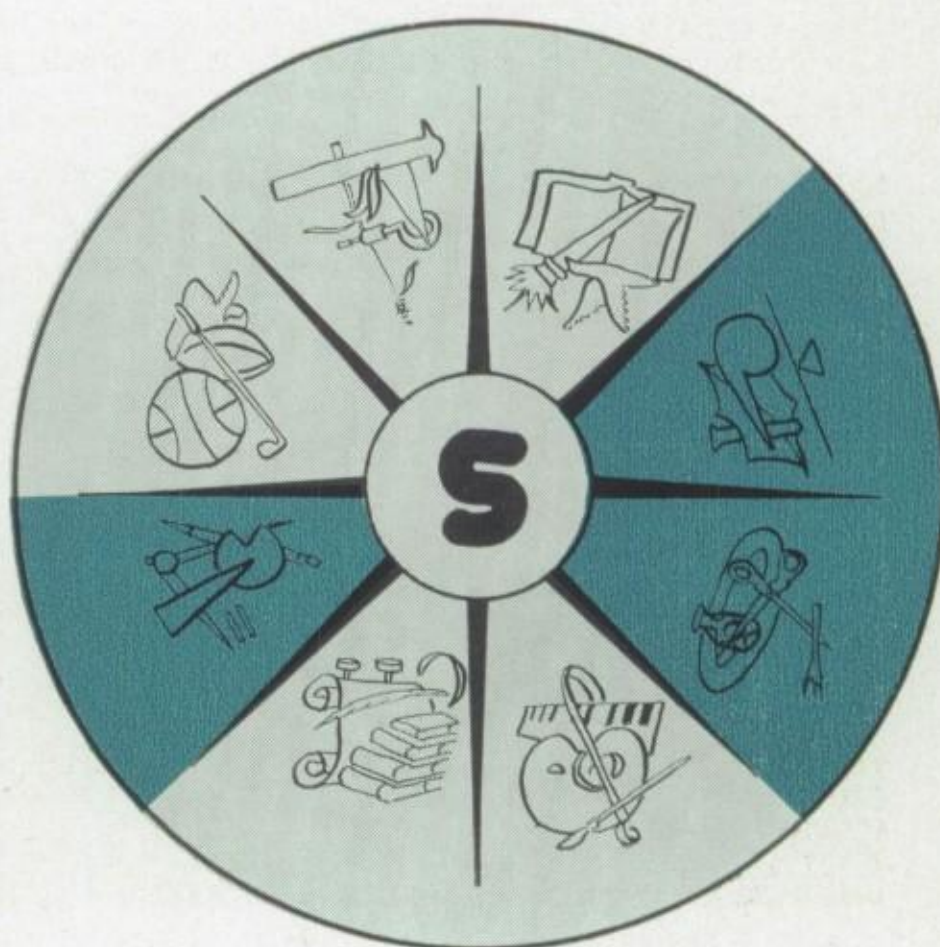

Because of her outstanding performance in the club last year, Kay Hatten, its president and a senior member of the organization, was chosen to cast, direct, and produce one of the three one-act plays which were presented. Serving as vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively were Susan Warwick and Carol Trees. Holding regular monthly meetings, the Mask and Dagger group contributed to the colorful school atmosphere and seems to have a bright future.

SCIENCES

Academic and domestic sciences are an integral part of any school. In our modern age, when science is in the news, radio, and television every day, no one can afford to be without some knowledge of its basic fundamentals. It is everybody's business and duty to attempt to understand the scientific and technical problems that face our nation and humanity and to comprehend the progress being made in their solution. Scientists, mathematicians, homemakers, and scores of other workers in related scientific vocations gained the basic understanding of their chosen fields through their high school science departments.

Students learn not only through classroom study but also experimentation. They gain practical experience through the various science projects. The organizations affiliated with the science departments extend the opportunity to students to put their knowledge to good use while serving others.

David Day, Tom Davis, Jay Clapp, and Phil Kuhn carefully weigh two white rats before starting them on a scientifically planned diet.

Biologists Mary Jane Dennis, Margaret Soller, and Lynn Delap water the plants while Phil Mohr cares for his horned toad.

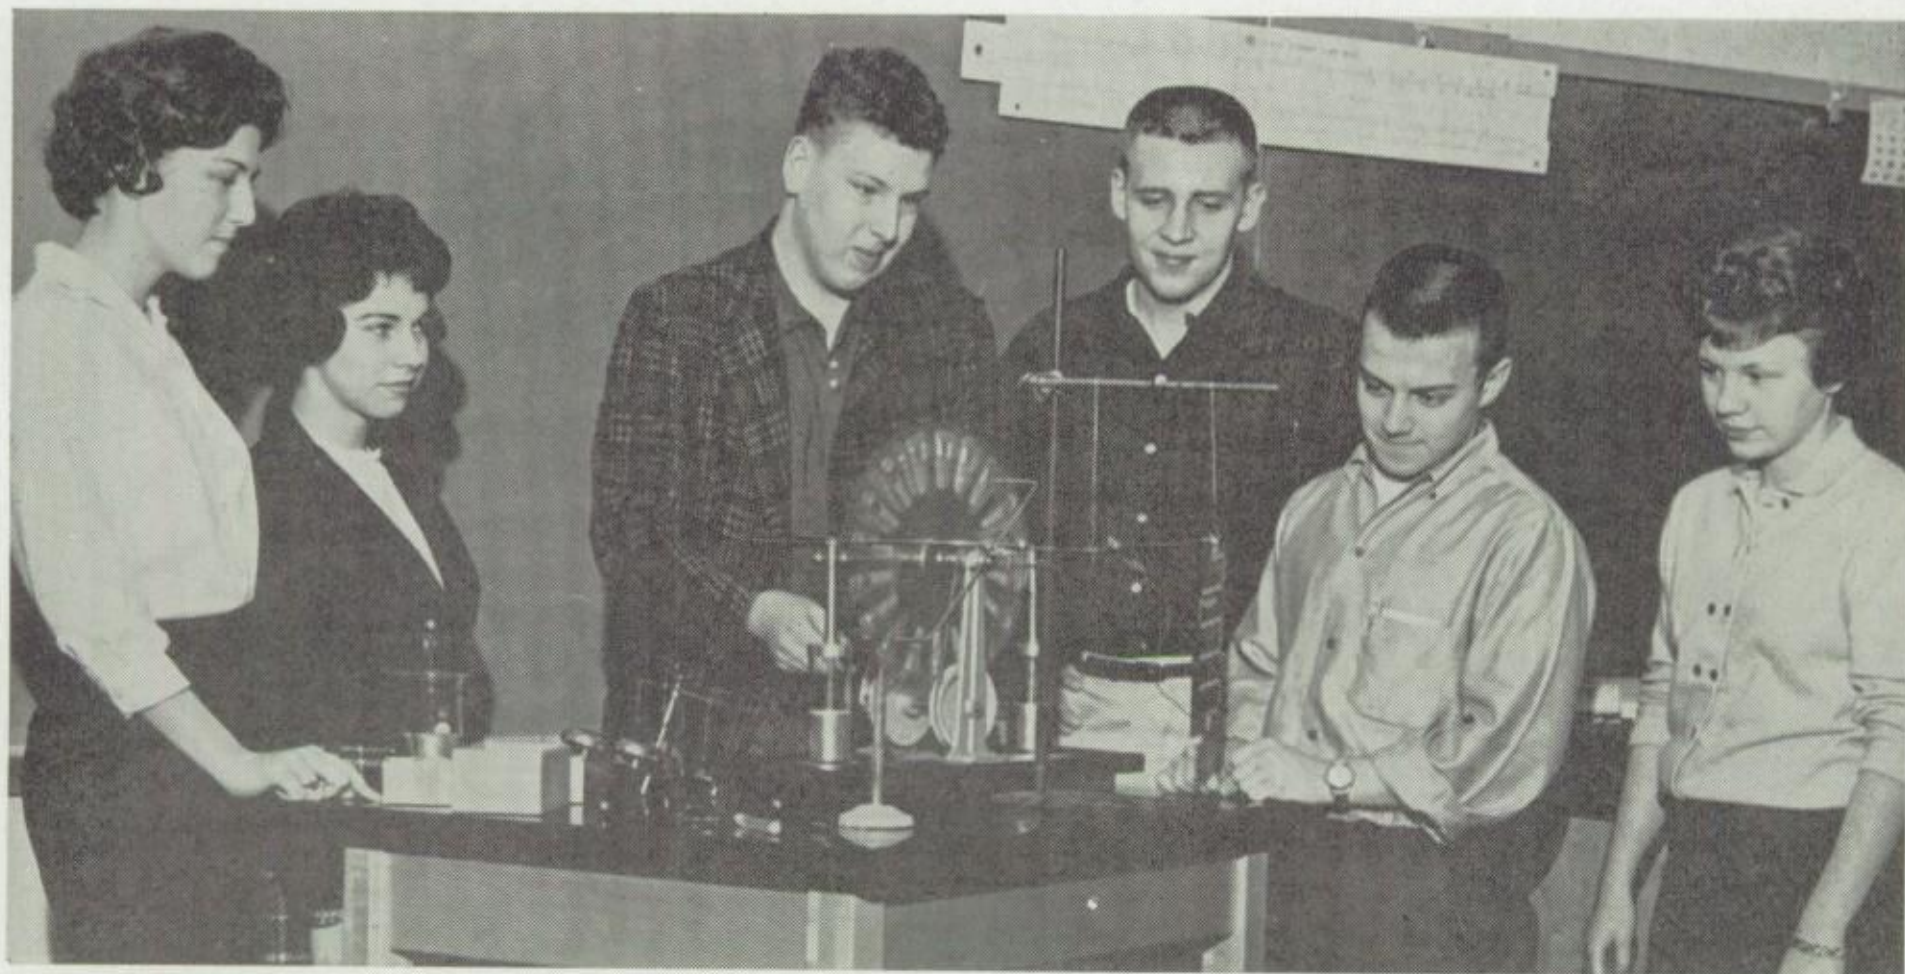

Health, a required one-semester course, is important to all students. Under the supervision of Doloris McDonald, girls' health instructor, and Arthur Barnett, instructor of the boys' classes, the students studied cells, tissues, organs, and systems. They also cut out, studied, and labeled the parts of a mannequin. At the beginning of the course, the students brought pictures of themselves when they were a year old in order to compare them with pictures taken just this year. During the course, the students were required to keep a notebook consisting of questions, answers, and drawings of various tissues and organs.

Biology, a study of all forms of life, both plant and animal, is taught by Garnett Winchester, Doloris McDonald, and Arthur Barnett. The work consists mainly of classroom discussion plus the student's careful completion of special projects. Raising rats, collecting insects, incubating eggs, keeping an aquarium, and making a model plant cell are a few of the projects carried out by pupils. During the first six weeks of the school year, biology students are required to grow five plants.

"SCIENTISTS" AT WORK? COULD BE!!

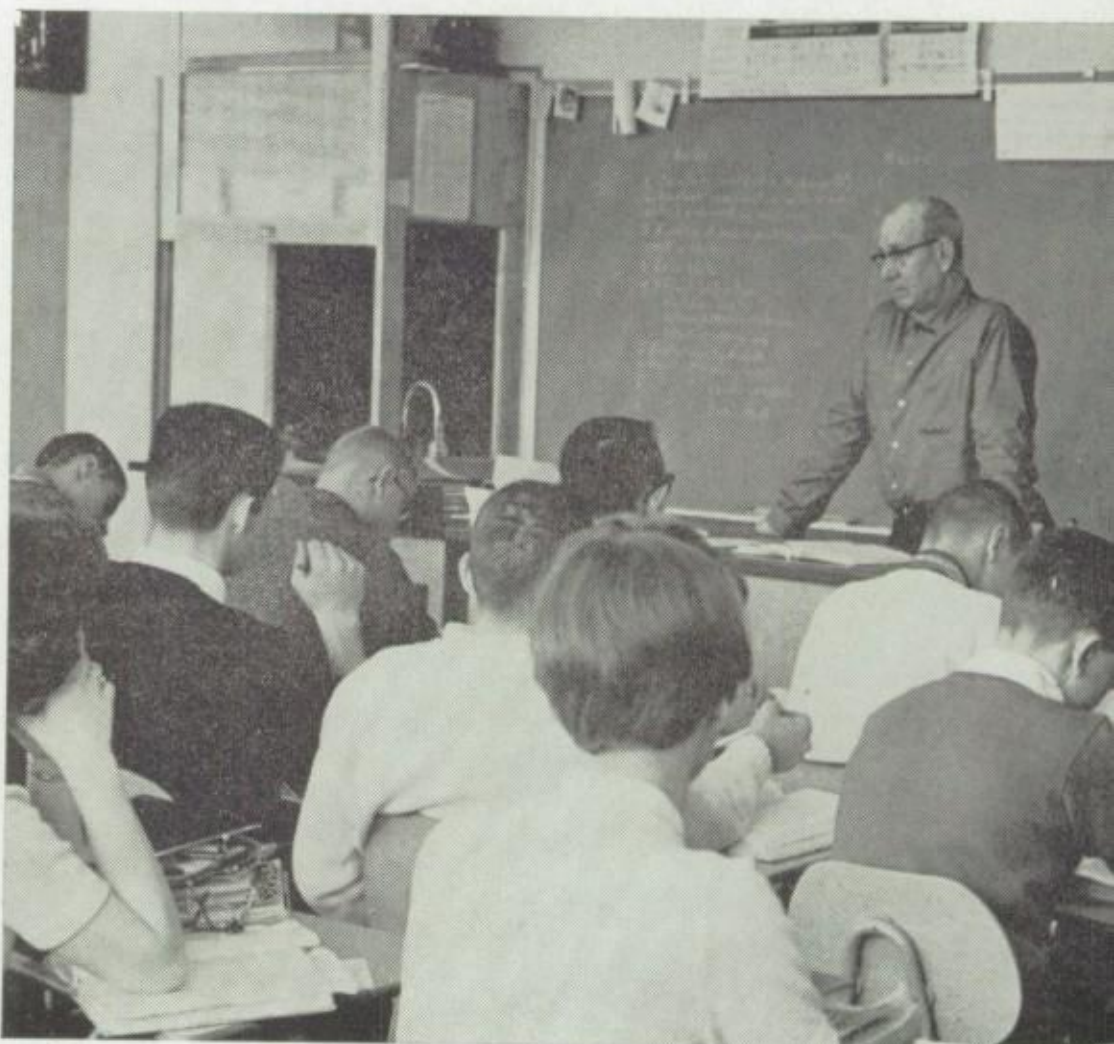

Donna Allen, Pat Branson, Dick Schoelch, Steve McGrew, and Marty Mitchell look on while Tom Morgan operates a static electricity machine in the fifth hour physics class.

Lawrence W. Thompson, Science. A. B., Central Normal College, Indiana University, Case Institute, Purdue University, Oak Ridge Institute, Reed College, Brigham Young University. Senior Class Chairman, Squib Business Staff Sponsor. Hobby: Bowling.

Physics is concerned mainly with matter and energy and with the transformation of energy. Analyzing principles and solving problems are important mediums in the life of a physics student. Experiments, too, play a large part in the class routine.

This year the physics department obtained some new equipment—a Van de Graff generator and a demonstration radio receiver.

Mr. Thompson lectures to members of a chemistry class.

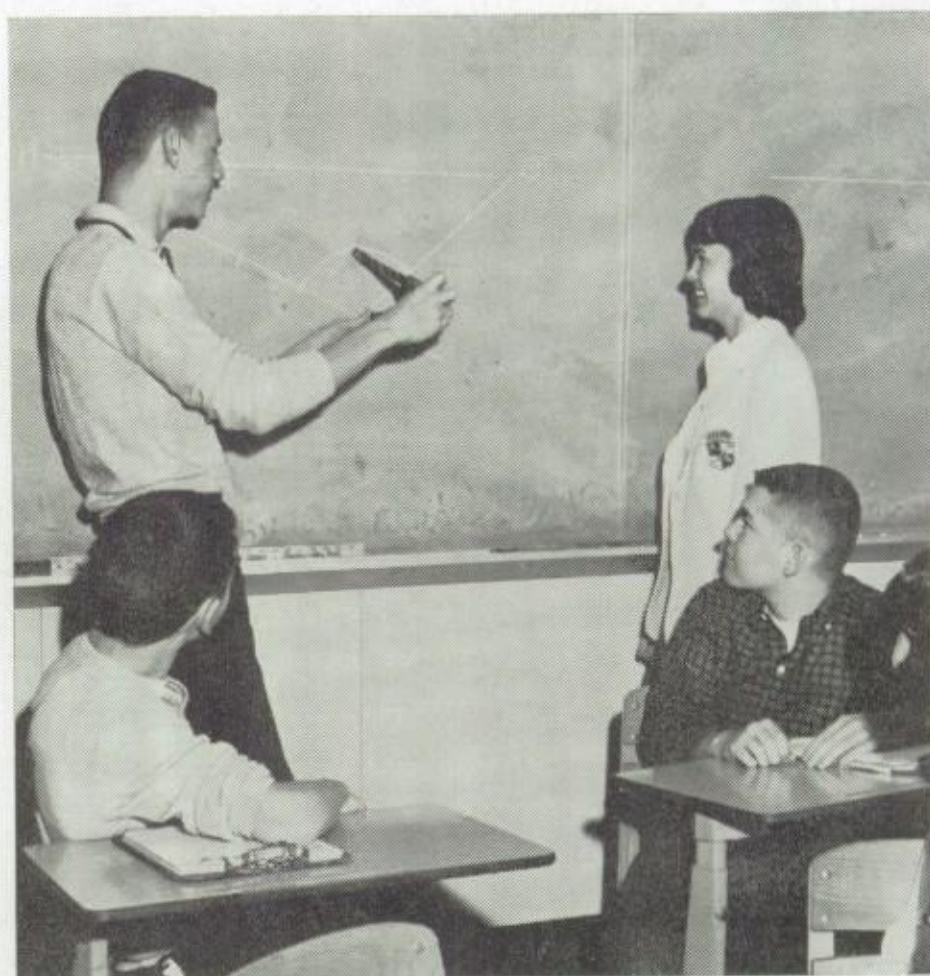

In this "age of miracles," the study of chemistry and physics is of great importance. Attesting to this fact are our many existing modern conveniences which have been developed and are being improved by technicians. The chemistry and physics courses at S. H. S. are designed to give a basic elementary knowledge of these fields.

The activities in a chemistry course include discussing the text, solving problems, writing equations, and performing experiments. The experiments include the production of oxygen, carbon dioxide, iodine, and several acids. All S. H. S. students remember vividly experiment number 58, because the odor of hydrogen sulfide (rotten eggs!) lingered in the corridors and adjoining classrooms for several hours.

Recognizing that it is necessary to help students correct deficiencies in arithmetic, to present mathematics from the point of view of the consumer, and to develop skills useful in various vocations, S. H. S. offers a wide variety of courses in its mathematics department.

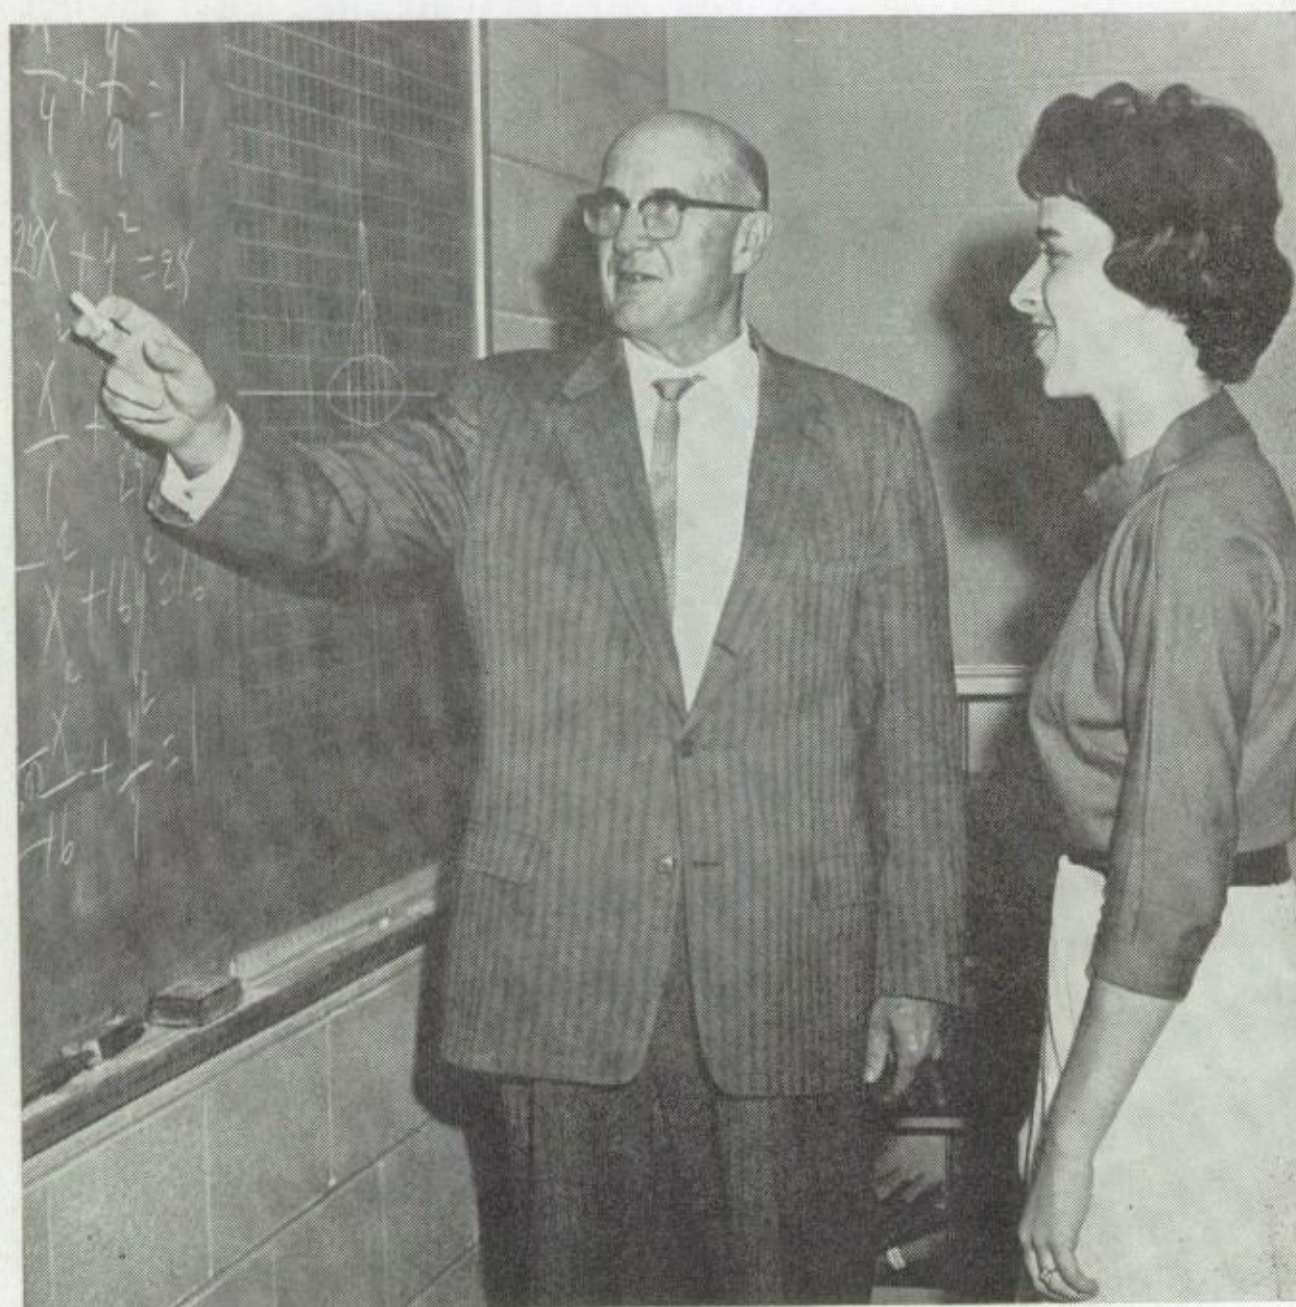

Plane geometry, taught by Ray Beck, deals with such figures as triangles, quadrilaterals, hexagons, and other polygons. The students in this class prove propositions and study the constructions of the various figures.

Since mathematics provides the foundation for future work in such fields as engineering, physics, and surveying, many pupils are taking advanced math courses instructed by James McKeand. These courses include advanced algebra, college algebra, solid geometry, analytic geometry, and introductory calculus.

Who's helping whom? It appears to be Wilfred Coers assisting Ann Woodmansee in a geometry proposition.

PLIGHT OF S. H. S. STARVING STUDENTS SERIOUS

Delightful aromas drifted from the cooking laboratory and filled the school corridors, tempting the palates of famished students. Although most of the pupils could only sniff, wonder, and continue on their ways, the lucky girls in the fifth hour sewing class were sometimes treated by the generous chefs. Throughout the year, busy girls learned the skills of cooking, while others made suits and dresses and practiced the proficiencies of tailoring and dressmaking.

The Home Economics Club, sponsored by Jessie Bodem, carried out their annual projects—the initiation of new members, a candy sale, and a faculty Christmas tea. The group also contributed to UNICEF.

To attain qualified membership in this organization, each girl must have had one year of home economics training and a willingness to participate in the club activities.

Nineteen sixty and sixty-one officers were Kay Thurston, president; Sheila Roberts, vice-president; and Cindy Mullen, secretary-treasurer.

Acquainting members with the duties, the qualifications, and the experiences of nursing is the purpose of this organization. Through films and speeches by registered nurses, the girls learned more about this profession.

The officers for the academic year of 1960-61 were as follows: Martha Jane Lochridge, president; Barbara Wetnight, vice-president; Sharon Shaner, secretary; Judy Weingarth, treasurer; and Sherry Smith, historian. Sponsoring the club was Doloris McDonald, assisted by Nellie Strait, co-sponsor.

During each hour of the school day, a member of the organization was on duty in the clinic. The girls kept records for the clinic office and rendered assistance in many other ways. As they have done in previous years in out-of-school hours, members of the Future Nurses' Club worked at the Major Hospital carrying trays, flowers, and magazines to the patients.

Divided into three active branches—sophomore, junior and senior, this organization is composed of all the S. H. S. girls who desire membership and who firmly believe: "He that does good to another does good to himself."

The purposes of the society are to promote the social welfare of the girls and to acquaint them with civic and social service work.

The various projects of the enthusiastic groups were visiting hospitals, visiting the County Home, and selling candy. The Senior Sunshine Society purchased and decorated a beautiful aluminum Christmas tree for the school; it also held its much-publicized annual Mother and Daughter Tea in May.

The Senior Sunshine Society was directed by the following persons: president, Sherry Smith; vice-president, Janet Stiles; secretary-treasurer, Donna Allen; and sponsor, Blanche Ashby.

The officers of the Junior Sunshine Society were Susan Cord, president; Pat McComas, vice-president; and Judy Owens, secretary-treasurer. Sponsoring this group was Lorena Williams.

The president of the sophomore body was Ann Schoelch; Peggy Vaught served as vice-president; and Karen Gunning was secretary-treasurer. Their sponsor was Jane Durrenberger.

SKILLS

Traveling through the skills section of the mosaic, each individual can be trained and educated to take part in community life, to be a good citizen, and to work for the support and betterment of the community. This implies taking advantage of the opportunities and privileges bestowed upon him.

Competition plus cooperation are two important factors facing future citizens. The fields of industrial arts and agriculture offer the student many challenges in a demanding world that is mechanized and over-populated. Too, one of the primary purposes of the school is the training of a student in keeping himself physically fit.

Industrial arts, agriculture, and athletics involve skills which may be used later on in life as vocational or avocational ones. In developing the use of these skills, an individual must have the coordination of his mental and physical attributes. It is to be expected that through this coordination of mental and physical powers an individual can reap great personal rewards from an investment of time in these related fields.

FOOTBALL SEASON BRINGS INJURIES TO PLAYERS

Relying primarily on an experienced backfield to form the nucleus of this year's edition of Bears, coach Robert Zimney, in his third year as varsity grid coach, and assistant coach Art Morgan, in his first year of coaching at Shelbyville High School, started preliminary practice sessions early in August.

After starting the season off slowly with a loss to the powerful Jeffersonville team—18-0—and another loss to Seymour—19-6—at the Owl's new stadium, the Bears came back the following week to take a decisive victory over a fine Franklin team—29-7. On September 23, 1960, the Bears hosted the Bulldogs of Columbus; and during this annual homecoming game, the first field goal in the history of Shelbyville football was kicked by junior halfback Jim Kremer. The Bears were hampered by numerous injuries in the starting lineup but filled in well with promising young sophomores and juniors.

Shelby ended its season with a loss to the rugged Southport team—27-8—and wound up sixth in the South Central Conference.

KIWANIS AWARD

Each year at the close of every football season, the Kiwanis Award is given to the player (or players, as the case may be) who in the estimation of the award committee has been the most valuable player and who has shown exceptional sportsmanship and mental attitude.

The 1960-61 recipient was C. M. Hepp, a senior and a three-bar letterman, who was the Bears' leading ground-gainer and scorer; also, C. M. was selected as a co-captain by his teammates.

In addition to participating in football, C. M. has played one year of varsity basketball and has been on the track team for two years. He is a member of the Glee Club, National Athletic Scholarship Society, Choir, Forum, Boys' Cheer Block, Hi-Y, and S-Club.

PAUL CROSS AWARD

Every varsity basketball player dreams of winning the coveted Paul Cross Award which is one of the best-known athletic awards given at Shelbyville High School. The winner's qualifications consist of athletic ability, good character, sportsmanship, and scholarship.

Since its founding in 1920, the award is presented annually by the Reverend S. J. Cross in honor of his son, Paul, who was a captain of a Shelby High basketball team and who was the first Shelby County boy killed in action in World War I. The 1960-61 winner will receive the forty-eighth medal given.

Because Reverend Cross was hospitalized, the award was not presented at its customary time — before the Squib went to press; instead, it was given at the annual May Awards Day Program.

What to do now?

Shelbyville's Golden Bears, coached by Dee Compton, tied for fifth place in the South Central Conference with a 4-5 record. The Golden Bears, after starting out strongly, finished with an 11-11 season record.

Shelbyville played five teams rated in the top twenty in the state (Muncie Central, Franklin, Madison, Connersville, and Indianapolis Attucks) and three in the top ten (Muncie Central, Madison, and Crispus Attucks). The Golden Bears lost to Franklin, the conference champion, by only one point and scared lofty Indianapolis Attucks by leading them 34-32 at half-time.

Phil Lackey, unanimously selected for the South Central Conference All-Star Team, set a school single season scoring record of 416 points in 20 games for a 20.8 game average; and his running mate, Tom Graham, scored 250 points in 20 games for an 11.4 average. Lackey also set a single game mark of 39 points early in the season in leading the Golden Bears to a 78-70 triumph over Martinsville. Dick Schoelch, senior forward, and junior starters Lonnie Walker and Sonny Schnippel were all big rebounders this season.

The Golden Bears, as a team, had an average of .393 from the floor, canning 470 rippers in 1,195 shots. From the foul line Shelby's season team average stands at 69 per cent on 300 one-pointers in 449 attempts.

With Shelby's "B" Team having a fine record this season, the varsity outlook for the 1961-1962 season is described as hopeful.

RESERVE TEAM HOLDS BEST SEASON RECORD

Shelbyville's Reserve Team, coached by Art Morgan (in his first year of teaching at the Shelbyville Junior High School), finished with a 15-5 season record. This is the finest season record for any reserve team in the past six years at Shelbyville High School.

Sophomore forward Mike Brunner was the leading scorer on the reserve team, followed by junior guard Dave Spannbauer. Sophomore forward Dan Barnett and sophomore center Don Sexton were among the leading rebounders on the reserve team.

Many of the boys on the reserve team—several of whom are six feet tall or more—should make excellent prospects for next year's varsity and possibly bring the Golden Bears a winning season in the 1961-1962 basketball campaign.

Since the freshman team had a fine 13-1 season record and several boys six feet tall or better, next year's reserve team should have as fine as or a better season record than the 1960-1961 team had.

1961 BASEBALL SCHEDULE IS ROUGH ONE

With only six lettermen returning from last year's team, Coach Dee Compton, who has taken over as the baseball coach for Arthur "Doc" Barnett, has started playing many sophomores and juniors. This year's baseball team has had good hitting and a fair defense with few errors being made in the infield and outfield.

The track team, coached by Bob Zimny, finished fourth in the conference in 1960. The 1961 track team will be made up mostly of underclassmen since there are only four or five seniors out for the sport. If the several returning lettermen and underclassmen come through, Shelbyville could have a fine track season. (When this write-up was done, the track season had not yet opened for 1961.)

TENNIS

This year's tennis team, coached by Dee Compton, finished fifth in the conference held at Columbus. Two warm-up matches were played — one against Columbus and the other against Southport.

In the singles, John Drew won his first conference match but lost his second to the champion. Don Thompson won his first conference match in the singles and was beaten in the second match by the runner-up. In the doubles, Benny Frank and Larry Moberly were defeated in their first match by the conference champions.

Since the team lost only one player via graduation, the outlook for 1961-62 is bright.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Although this year's cross-country team, coached by Dee Compton, did not record a highly successful season, the S. H. S. harriers are a young team and much is expected of them in the future.

The team was led by a sophomore, Wilfred Coers, whose best placings were a first, a third, and two fifths. Mike Brunner was the Bears' second best runner.

At Rushville, the S. H. S. harriers placed eighth in the annual South Central Conference Cross-Country Meet.

GOLF

This year's golf team, coached by Frank Barnes, athletic director, placed fifth in the South Central Conference Championship Golf Meet. The meet was the closest one ever held; one stroke separated each of the first five teams! North Thurston led the team with a 79, and Dave Spannbauer was second with an 80.

The varsity cheerleaders for the 1960-61 school year were Cindy Mullen, Janice Metz, and Faye Cole — all seniors; and Nancy Nauert and Rosalie Wendling, juniors. This is the third year of yell leading for Cindy, the second year for Janice, and the first year for Faye, Nancy, and Rosalie.

These girls led our cheering section at the school sports events. They also gave moral support to the Girls' Booster Club in their yells at the basketball games.

This group, under the direction of Betty Ramey, made posters and put them in the halls of the school before the games to encourage victory and boost school spirit.

Supporting the Reserve Team, the Freshman Team, and the Shelbyville Junior High School Team were these girls: Anne Ewing, Barbara Hey, Angie Linville, and Pam Adams.

Prodded and encouraged by the enthusiastic cheerleaders, the student body did a wonderful job of supporting its teams. A school team may be expected to be only as good as its backers!

JUNIOR HIGH CHEERLEADERS: Barbara Hey, Pam Adams, Anne Ewing, and Angie Linville.

SCHOLARSHIP AND ABILITY — WINNING COMBINATION

N. A. S. S.

The National Athletic Scholarship Society is composed of a group of athletes who have earned an "S" in one of the four major sports, or letters in two minor sports, and who have maintained an average equal to or better than the scholastic average of 87 per cent.

The purposes of this organization are to encourage high scholarship, to stimulate desire for balanced training, and to develop outstanding leaders.

The members are not elected but are granted membership automatically when they meet the qualifications. Initiation of new members is a high light at the spring Awards Day Program. Since it is an honorary organization, N.A.S.S. has no officers and no regular meetings.

BOYS' CHEER BLOCK

For the third year the Boys' Cheer Block has helped to promote school spirit at our football and basketball games. By dressing alike and sitting together at all the games, by composing their own yells, and by helping the Girls' Booster Club with their cheers, the boys were able to support the teams effectively.

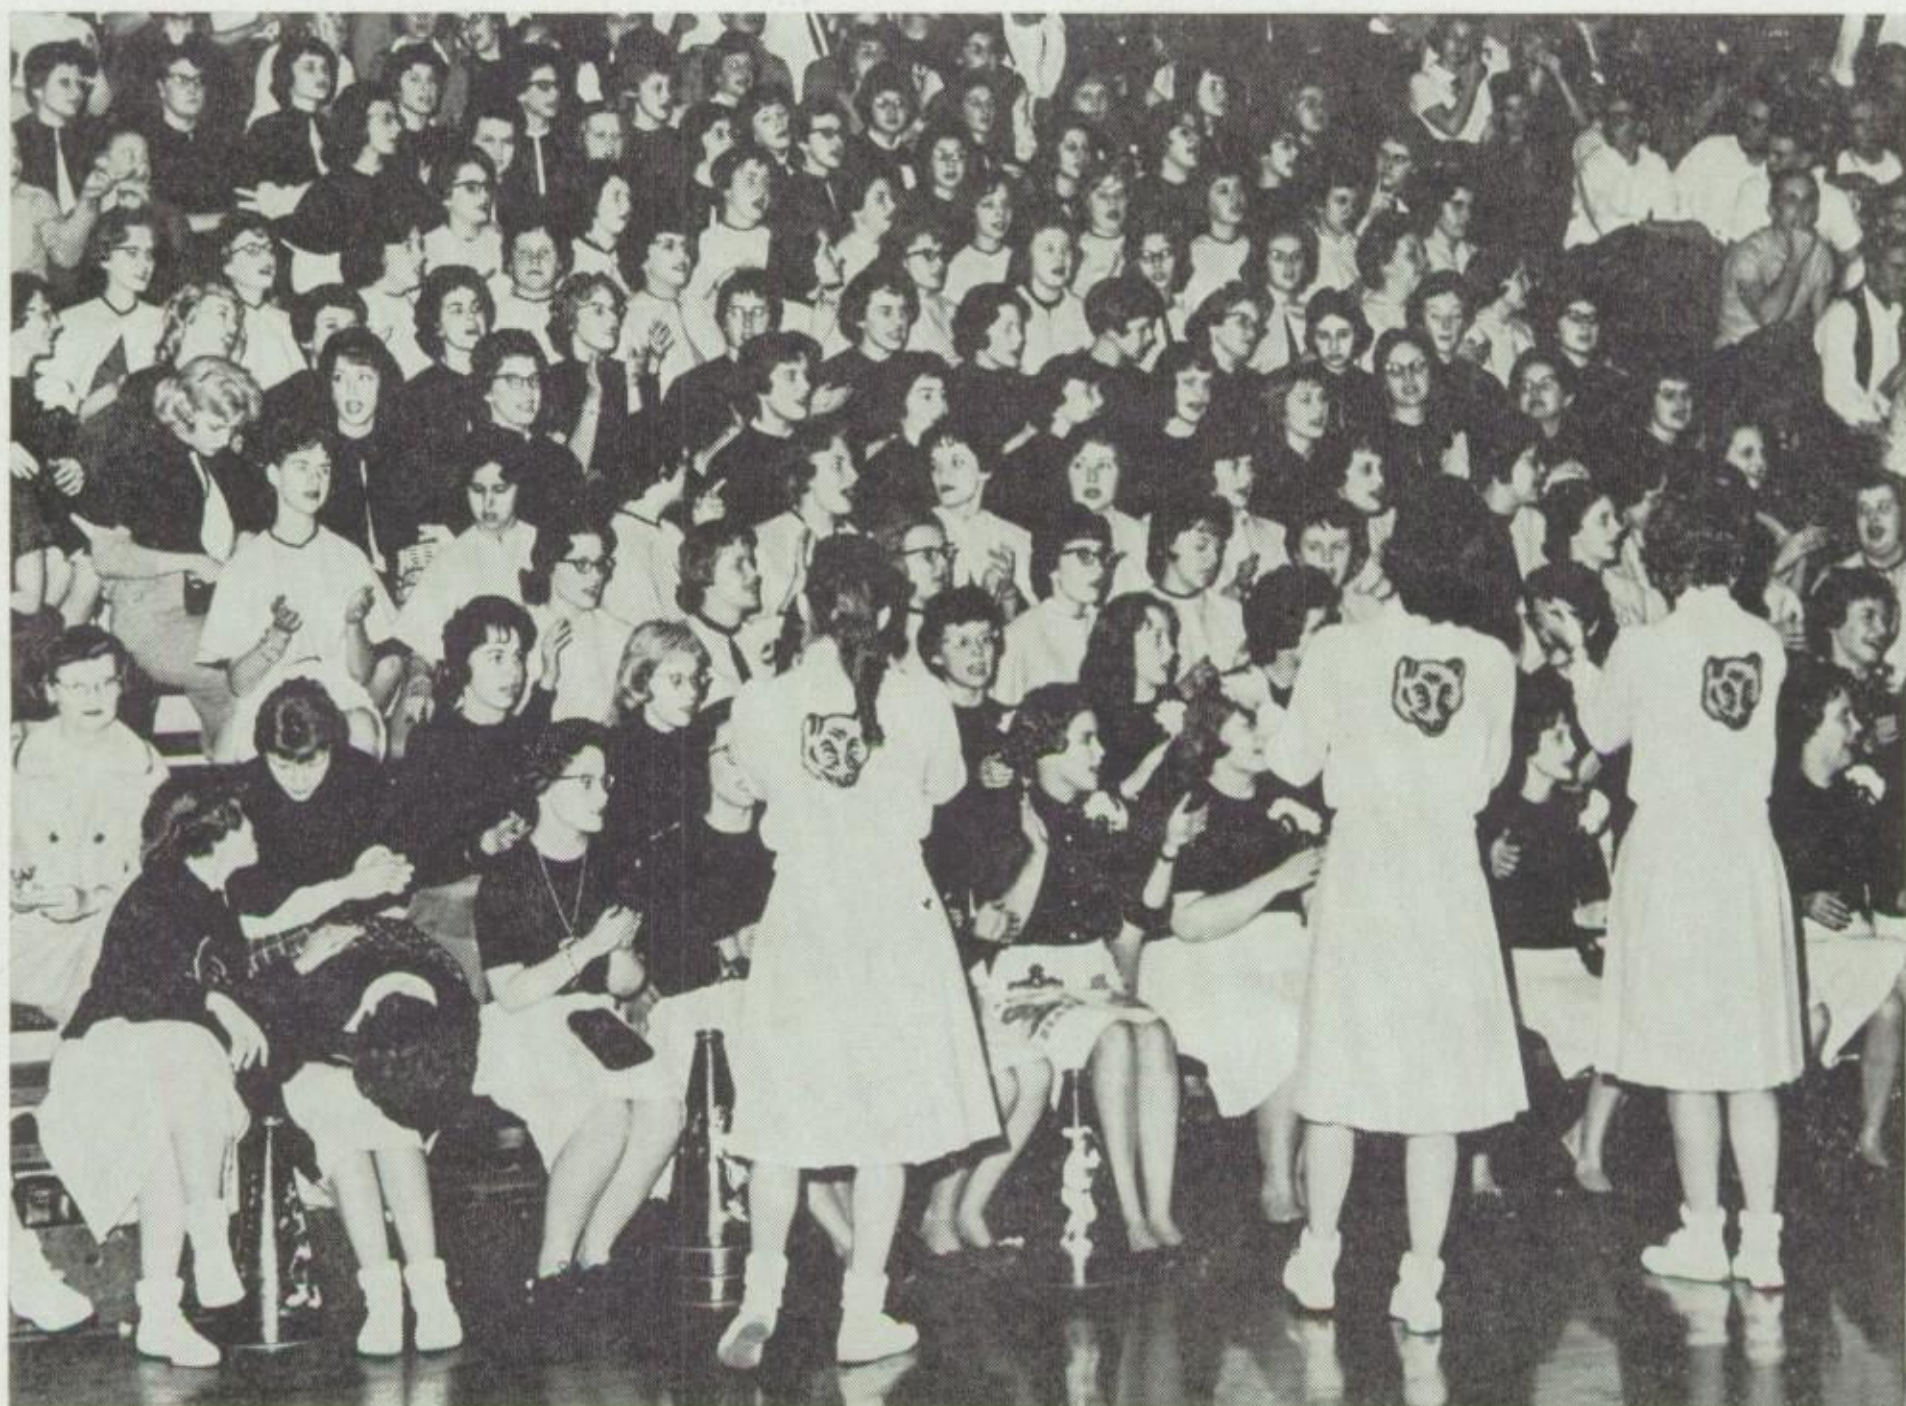

The main activity of the Cheer Block was helping with the sock hop and pep rally before the sectional tourney.

Any boy is eligible for membership in this group if he conducts himself in an acceptable manner at the ball games.

Officers for the 1960-61 school year were as follows: Kenneth Cawood, president; Ernie Engle, vice-president; and David Jones, secretary-treasurer. John Harding directed the yells, and Ray Beck sponsored the organization.

GIRLS' BOOSTER CLUB CHEERS TEAMS TO VICTORIES

Sitting in an especially designated section at basketball games, sophomore, junior, and senior girls kept school morale high by forming attractive "attention-getters" with their capes of black and gold.

New ideas incorporated this year by the organization were that the members marched into the Paul Cross Gymnasium as a poised and enthusiastic group and that the club also sat in a booster block at the Sectional Tourney.

Serving as 1960-61 officers were Mary Ellen Hall, president; Emily McKeand, vice-president; Patricia Murphy, secretary; and Georgiann Martin, treasurer. The sponsor of this group was Betty Ramey, the Junior High School's physical education instructor.

ATHLETIC PROGRAM STRENGTHENED BY ORGANIZATIONS

S-Club

The S-Club was composed of forty-five boys who held a varsity letter, who had a scholastic average of 81 per cent or more, and who had the unanimous approval of the club's membership. It was guided by the sponsor, Arthur "Doc" Barnett, the principal, and the athletic staff.

The club's purpose is to aid the athletic program. Its activities included handling concessions at football games, the purchase of a trophy case for the gymnasium, and an annual fall initiation dinner.

Serving the members this year were the following officers: president, Dick Schoelch; vice-president, C. M. Hepp; and secretary-treasurer, Tom Graham.

G. A. A.

Membership in the Girls' Athletic Association is open to all girls enrolled in Shelbyville High School. Its purpose is to give those interested in intramural athletic events an opportunity to participate in athletics and to promote ideals in health and sportsmanship.

Members may win a pin, a letter, or a plaque by earning points through achievement tests and by participating in other sports activities.

Officers were as follows: president, Faye Cole; vice-president, Emily McKeand; secretary, Rosalie Wendling; treasurer, Happy Walts; and point-captain, Sheila Roberts. Betty Ramey sponsored the organization.

PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERSHIP EXTENDED TO SOPHOMORES

The purpose of the Hi-Y, a branch of the Y.M.C.A., is "to create, maintain, and extend high standards of Christian character throughout the school and community." This year the incoming sophomore boys who had been members previously at the Shelbyville Junior High School were eligible to join, raising the membership of the group to 129. The initiation of the new members was held in the fall; and Delma Saxon, associate pastor of the First Methodist Church, was the speaker.

Just as it did last year, Hi-Y again sponsored the weekly prayer service over the public address system. The organization was also responsible for the Thanksgiving and Easter programs, whose main speakers were local ministers.

The club sponsored a sock hop after the first basketball game, handed out programs at the football games, and continued the coat-checking service at the basketball games. In the spring, the Hi-Y members attended a picnic that was held in their honor.

Officers for the year were Steve McGrew, president; Dick Schoelch, vice-president; Phil Lackey, secretary; and Tom Graham, treasurer. Robert Clapp and Loren Hemingway sponsored the organization.

Has anyone checked the cash box recently? Hi-Y workers are Eugene McKinney, Jim Swails, and Milford McClory.

Mary Lou Grigsby, cadet teacher, listens to an elementary school pupil read.

One organization which is really looking ahead is the Future Teachers of America. This club was organized for the purpose of acquainting high school juniors and seniors with all the phases of teaching in which they show an interest. The activities of the club and its monthly programs, which usually included guest speakers or films, tended to give the members a better idea of what field of teaching they would like to enter. Some of the speakers and their subjects were as follows: Miss Pauline Jones, primary teaching; Mrs. Floyd Wagner, teaching retarded children; Mrs. James Patterson, physical education and guidance instruction; and Mrs. Richard Wehrenberg, junior high school teaching.

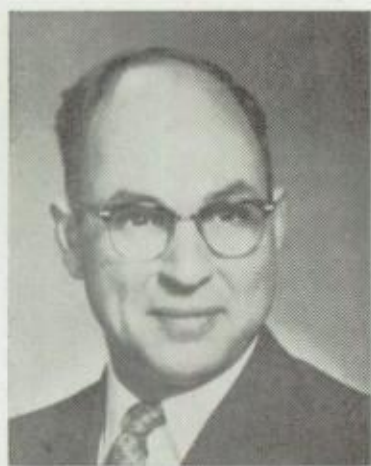

Many of the members were able to do some cadet teaching in the local grade schools and at the junior high school; others worked as lab assistants in the biology and chemistry classes. These people helped the science students perform experiments and set up special projects. They also graded papers, ran errands, and helped with classwork. This year's officers were Barbara Wetnight, president; Jane McCabe, vice-president; and Donna Allen, secretary-treasurer. Louis Kuhn was their sponsor.

Future craftsman Sonny Schnippel labors on a metal shop class project.

SHOP

Metal shop classes provide for a basic study of the different phases of machine shop practices involving tools, materials, and processes pertaining to bench work, machine operations, use of hand tools, and shop safety. Useful projects are undertaken in machine shop, sheet metal, and welding areas.

An increasing awareness of the need for a knowledge of the language of industry has prompted many students to enroll in drafting classes. Two courses are offered — mechanical drawing and fundamental engineering drawing.

Based on the student's acceptance of correct practices in the use of woodworking machines and equipment, wood shop enables the pupil to become more familiar with the operations and practices in cabinet-making industries.

Melvin L. Davies and Thomas Strawn are the shop instructors.

F. F. A.

The Future Farmers of America Club, which was organized just last year, assists the regular classes in teaching vocational agriculture. Through active participation, it also enables its members to learn how to conduct and take part in a public meeting and to work together cooperatively.

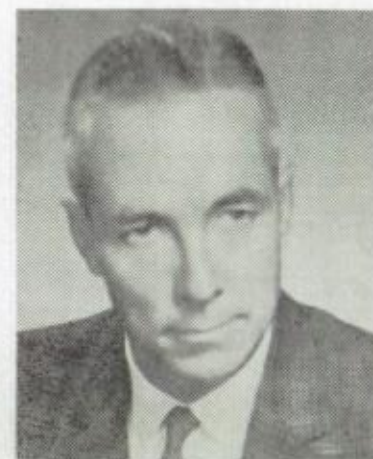

Eligibility for membership, this year, was extended to the freshmen, who, being new members, were considered Green Hands, while the older members were called Chapter Farmers. The club's activities for the 1960-61 year included a "gift-to-the-needy" program at Thanksgiving and the annual seed sales.

The officers were as follows: Ned Ellison, president; Max McColley, vice-president; Keith Theobald, secretary; Larry Wood, treasurer; Alton Adkins, reporter; and Dave Jones, sentinel. The club was sponsored by Garnett Winchester.

HAM MEMBERS' GEAR CALLED RIG

"CQ, CQ, this is K9GLV calling." This phrase, which is used as a general call to other amateurs, could be heard quite often around the ham radio "shack" adjacent to the metal shop. Under the leadership of Melvin Davies, the Radio Club members have studied radio theory and have tried to learn more about the operation of radio equipment. This knowledge has been applied in operating the club station, and the club members have made contact with stations in many other states. Besides operating the station, the licensed members help the others learn the code and radio theory needed in obtaining an amateur license.

The officers for this year were as follows: Mark Comstock, president; Dave Smith, vice-president; Ruth Anne Kennedy, secretary; and Mark Pitts, treasurer.

The main objective of the Radio Club is to train its members so that they may become licensed amateur radio operators. This year the club, open to all pupils who were interested in the operation and maintenance of radio equipment, consisted of ten members—four of whom had amateur licenses. The other six people studied the code and theory in preparation for obtaining their amateur licenses. The amateurs are segregated into three classes—general, technician, and novice.

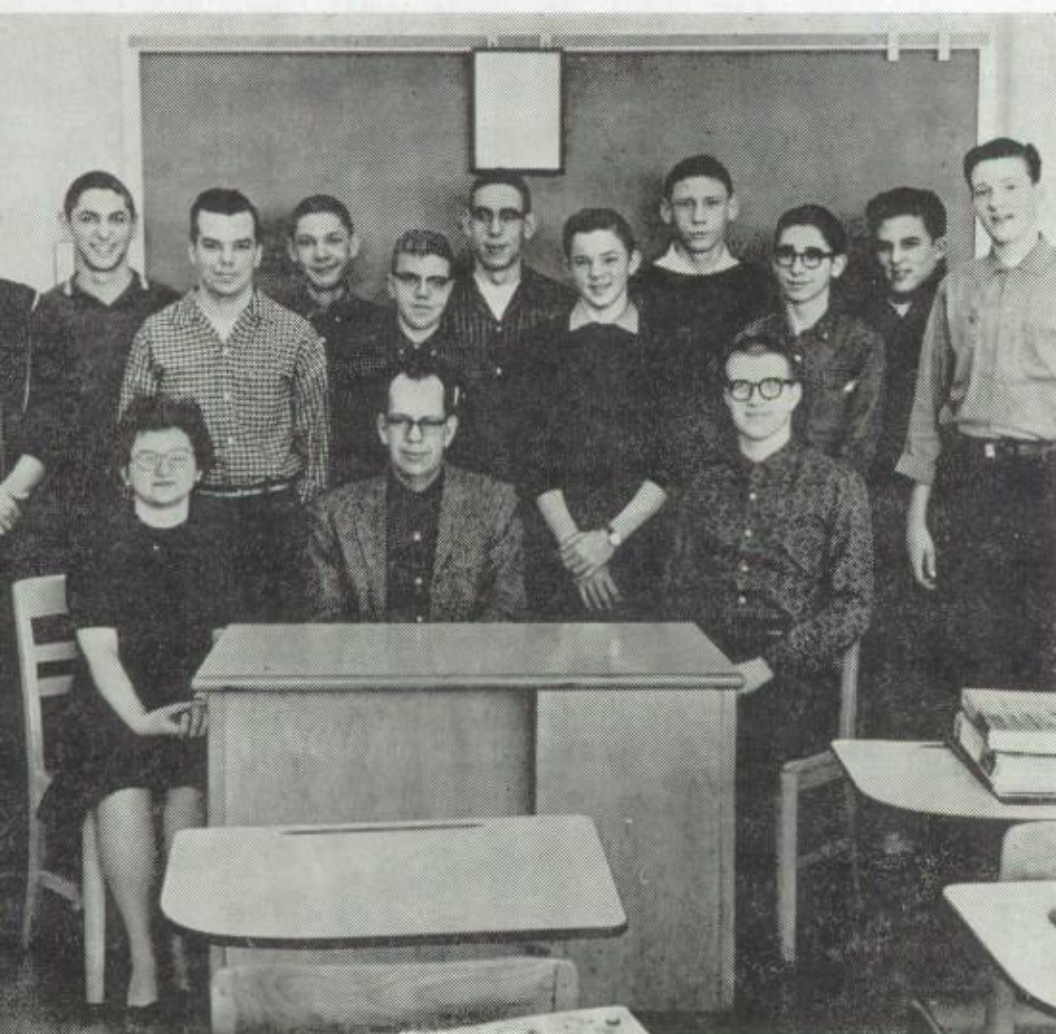

DRIVER TRAINING

Since the number of cars on our highways is increasing, it is very important that each driver know and observe the rules of safe driving. This course attempts to teach these regulations and observances to aspiring students.

Students make use of the class textbook, the Indiana Driver's Manual, and equipment on which they test themselves for color blindness, peripheral vision, ability to judge distances, steadiness, and reaction time.

After studying the books and testing the equipment, the students begin their actual driving. This practice driving is perhaps the most enjoyable part of the course because it gives the student the experience he wants in handling a car.

Instructors in these classes were Robert Clapp and Leroy "Dee" Compton.

The hub of the wheel is the emblem “S”. It represents the heart of the school—the student body sectioned into its respective classes and the various functions of each individual class.

The senior graduating class with its poignant, pleasant memories is proud of Shelbyville High School. As the years go by, this class will look back on its high school days as the happiest ones of life. To the underclassmen and future students goes the task of upholding the cherished traditions of the past.

Shelbyville High School believes in the importance of the individual. Each individual’s abilities, interests, and needs have been of primary importance in determining school philosophy. Thusly, S. H. S.’s aim is to educate the individual in facing problems, considering solutions, making choices, evaluating mistakes, developing vocational aptitudes, fulfilling ambitions, achieving success, and striving for the ultimate goals in service, position, and honor.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS HONORED IN MANY WAYS

North Thurston

LORD MAYOR

Besides maintaining a "straight A" average, North participated in many school activities throughout his high school career. He was a member of Forum, Hi-Y, S-Club, Concessions, and, during his junior year, the Advanced History Class. Since playing golf is one of his favorite pastimes, North was also on the golf team. Another of his hobbies is shooting a rifle.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Faye Cole, secretary-treasurer; Dick Schoelch, president; Steve McGrew, vice-president.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARSHIP

Ray Ward was named a National Merit Scholarship finalist of 1960. This honor was given to Ray on the basis of the scores he received on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test—an examination given to high school students in their junior year. Ray is a newly elected member of the National Honor Society and will attend Purdue University next fall.

D. A. R. AWARD

The winner of the D. A. R. award for the 1960-61 school year was Judy Wasson. Judy, also selected as the county's D. A. R. winner on the basis of a world-affairs test and a theme written on the subject, "To What Avail If Freedom Fail," was the editor-in-chief of the 1961 Squib, an N. H. S. member, and a member of the Singing Stars. Upon graduation from high school, Judy plans to attend Maryville College in Tennessee.

COMMERCIAL AWARD

The Commercial Award, initiated in 1928, is given to the most outstanding commercial student of the year by the Business and Professional Women's Club. This year's award went to two well-qualified winners—Faye Cole and Judy Weingarh. Commercial grades, grades in other courses, and personality, which includes initiative, cooperation, ability to follow directions, self-control, and attitude toward the school, are the factors upon which the selection is based. The recipients were given monetary gifts of $25 each.

TAKE THE "A" TRAIN!!

As a climax to the year's activities, thirty-three members of the senior class were chosen as members of the National Honor Society. To be eligible for this honor, students must have maintained grades which rank in the upper twenty-five per cent of the graduating class. From the eligible twenty-five per cent, only fifteen per cent are elected by the faculty members to the N. H. S.

Each candidate is considered with respect to character, leadership, and service, as well as scholastic standing. A student may gain recognition in character by meeting his individual obligations to the school promptly and completely; he must demonstrate certain qualities of personality, honesty, reliability, promptness, achievement, and morality which are indispensable to the finest adult status. Leadership is interpreted to mean the demonstration of initiative in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities. Service is defined as a willingness to render any services to the school cheerfully and enthusiastically.

On May 3, the S. H. S. alumni N. H. S. group honored the new members with a dinner and an induction program. The Reverend Fred Whitaker was the speaker for the evening. Presiding officers for the year 1960-61 were as follows: Robert E. Marshall, president; Mrs. James Hagan, vice-president; and Martin Cherry, secretary-treasurer.

Congratulations to each 1961 N. H. S. member; may he be able to continue to be worthy of this honor in the years that lie ahead!

N. H. S. alumni officers welcome some of the new members. Row 1: Martin Cherry, State Board of Accounts' Examiner; Mrs. James Hagan, Welfare Visitor; and Robert E. Marshall, local attorney. Row 2. Rachel Hauk, Fred Cline, and Barbara Wetnight, seniors.

PROM COURT: Alan Koehler, Barbara Benefiel, Mary Ann Bennett, Eugene Bryer, Sue Ramsey, Jim Kremer.

ALL BUT NERO ENJOY THE "ROMAN HOLIDAY"

Randy Long, Mike Mount, Linda Wiley, Wendell Bernard, Karen Handy, and Nancy Nauert, members of the Prom Decorating Committee, discuss plans for the Prom.

The theme of the 1961 Junior-Senior Prom, held on May 19, 1961, in the Paul Cross Gym, was "Roman Holiday." Music was provided by Gary Miller and his orchestra.

Under the capable direction of Randy Long, chairman, the decorating committee effected the prevailing spirit of ancient Roman days in the gymnasium. The center-piece on the dance floor was a flowing fountain surrounding by pillars and urns. A special setting of large pillars and of beautiful, intricate floral arrangements was created for the court while the "ceiling" was decorated with crepe paper strung on wires.

Members of the court were Barbara Benefiel, escorted by Alan Koehler; Sue Ramsey, escorted by Jim Kremer, and Mary Ann Bennett, escorted by Eugene Bryer.

1960 PROM WAS TRULY MEMORABLE

"Harbor Lights" was the theme for the Junior-Senior Prom held in the Paul Cross Gym on May 13, 1960. Gary Miller and his fifteen-piece orchestra augmented the night club atmosphere with a "big band" sound.

The high light of the evening was the crowning of Miss Cindy Mullen as queen of the Prom by Richard Schoelch, president of the junior class. Miss Mullen and her court, composed of Trudy Haley and Janice Metz with their escorts Doug Lackey, Ted Honey, and Phil Lackey, presided over the memorable evening.

With decorations adhering to the theme, the gym was transformed into a veritable night club by the sea. The band, located on the stage in front of a romantically lighted backdrop, furnished inviting music to make the evening truly one to remember. In its patio setting, the court was seated in the south end of the gym underneath a roof of simulated flowers. Appropriately decorated and enhanced by light blue footlights, the centerpiece, a captain's wheel, was covered with greenery. Draped in fish nets and other symbols of aquatic life, the west wall displayed a bay window with a sea-side view. The problem of ceiling decorations was adequately solved by Eddie Gaston and his decoration committee. Light blue paper strips were hung across the entire gym. The entrance to the gym, resembling a night club facade, was outlined with red brick paper.

Incoming junior class officers, Mark Mount, Alan Koehler, and Ann Staats, and Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wicker served cookies and punch to "patrons" after the Grand March. The food committee was headed by Trudy Haley and sponsored by Irene Simpson.

The Prom couldn't have been a success without the combined efforts of the class officers, members of the various prom committees, and the junior class sponsors.

IN MEMORIAM

PAUL ASH

June 11, 1943—January 4, 1961

"The time God allows to each of us is like a precious tissue which we embroider as we best know how."

Anatole France

Everything in life — whether great or small — begins as just a thought — an idea. Through hope thoughts become dreams. Through much hard work, dreams come true. This book was only a thought ... a hope ... a dream. Through endless hours of anticipation, uncertainty, disappointment, desperation, and work! ... work! ... work! ... this book has become a reality.

Thanks to the skill and cooperation of Robert Brant, Chafee's Studio, Qualityprint, Inc., Photo-crafters, Inc., Ropkey Engraving Company, Inc., The Shelbyville News, and John Simpson, this book has captured in pictures and words a record of our days at Shelbyville High School.

To our annual sponsors, teachers, students, and all who have helped in making this book possible, the staff sends a heartfelt thank you!

Judy Wasson
